Sen. McCumber, Republican, Denounces Report of Majority Amendments

Would Reject Proposed Amendments and Modify Strong Reservations

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—Rejection of all proposed amendments to the German peace treaty and modification of the recommended "strong" reservations was urged by an individual minority report filed with the senate today, by Senator McCumber, republican, of North Dakota, next in rank on the foreign relations committee to Chairman Lodge. Senator McCumber voted with the democrats on amendments and several reservations.

Senator McCumber denounced most of the majority amendments as "self-continued to last page"

ANOTHER TANK EXPLODES

Naphtha Blows up as Airplane Rides Overhead—Six Tanks Still Burning

NEW YORK, Sept. 15.—The spectacular oil fire which since Saturday afternoon has raged at the plant of the Sone & Fleming Co. in Long Island City with injury to more than 50 persons, and property damage running into the millions gradually was burning itself out today.

Herbert L. Pratt of the Standard Oil Co. of which the Sone & Fleming plant is a subsidiary, said that the property damage would be more than $2,000,000. About $500,000 of this sum represents oil consumed in the fire. Thirty-six tanks have been destroyed. Another naphtha tank blew up today. Six tanks still are on fire but the conflagration is under control.

Just before the tank exploded an airplane with a motion picture photographer on board circled four times over the ruins. After the explosion the airplane shot through the column of smoke while the photographer took pictures.

Since the outbreak of the fire 300 firemen have been treated for blistered feet caused by the blazing oil penetrating their rubber boots.

Deputy Fire Chief Maher said that he expected the fire to continue for at least two days more.

BIG BUILDING PROJECT

Local Corporation Plans to Build $1,000,000 Mill and Storehouse

The Bay State Cotton Corporation this morning took out a permit from the office of the buildings department at city hall for the erection of the first unit of what eventually is to be a million dollar project at the junction of Broadway and Pawtucket streets.

The permit issued today was for a seven-story storehouse of reinforced concrete construction. Later on a permit will be taken out by the corporation for the erection of a four-story mill for manufacturing purposes. The latter building will be 142 by 221 feet.

The storehouse is designed by Lockwood, Green and Co., architects of Boston, and is to be built by the Abertham Construction Co., also of Boston. The building will have solid walls with reinforced concrete frames and the roof will be flat with tar and gravel covering. It will be equipped with sprinklers and outside fire protection and will be heated by steam. One of the features of the proposed structure will be the building of a tunnel leading from the old plant of the company in Marginal street, under a series of railroad tracks and into the new storehouse and mill.

ARRIVES AT FIUME

Deputy Chief of Italian Army Has Broad Powers to Meet Situation

PARIS, Sept. 15 (Havas).—General Badoglio, deputy chief of the Italian army, who has been given broad powers to meet the situation which has arisen in Fiume, incident to the entry of the city by Captain Gabriele d'Annunzio at the head of a large force of irregular troops, has arrived at Fiume, accompanied by General Anfossi, according to advices received here.

Marching on Fiume

ROME, Sept. 15.—Reinforcements for Captain d'Annunzio's forces are said to be marching on Fiume. General Ferrari, commanding the Italian troops on the armistice line, has been ordered to prevent the forces from joining Captain d'Annunzio. d'Annunzio led forces estimated to number from 2300 to 12,000 men into Fiume last week.

DEBATE ON TREATY AND LEAGUE OPENS

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—Debate on the peace treaty and its League of Nations covenant was expected to begin in the senate today. Chairman Lodge of the foreign relations committee, planned to call up the pact this afternoon to be kept continuously before the senate in open executive session until the final vote on ratification is taken.

To expedite matters, it was planned to dispense with formal first reading and consider the treaty article by article. It was believed that a test of voting strength would be reached this week on the foreign relations committee amendment to article III, providing that the United States shall have a vote in the assembly equal to that of any other nation.

BIG DEMOCRATIC RALLIES HERE

Candidates Long, Foss and Monahan Addressed Large Crowds Saturday Night

Each Explained His Platform

—Hon. Jos. Conry and Hon. Ed Barry Also Heard

Lowell became the storm centre of the state political campaign Saturday evening when a large number of candidates for the higher state offices, including three democratic candidates for governor, addressed voters at city hall, Tower's corner and Bridge and Fudge streets. There were large crowds at each forum and no less than several thousand people assembled in front of city hall. The evening was ideal for outdoor speaking and as it was the first occasion in this year's primary fight that Lowell voters had heard the leading candidates there was plenty of interest manifested.

Richard H. Long, Eugene N. Foss and George F. Monahan, all democratic aspirants for gubernatorial honors, each made known emphatically the issues upon which he stands. Other speakers were ex-Congressman Joseph A. Conry, democratic candidate for attorney general; Edward P. Barry, former lieutenant governor; Lieut. Wil-

RESERVE MILITARY FORCE FOR CITY

A meeting to interest Lowell service men in the formation of a reserve military force for this city and to recruit the former local companies of the Old Sixth Regiment to peace strength, will be held tonight at the Community Service club in Dutton street.

During this week opportunity will be afforded to register at the armory. There are no obligations included other than to signify an intention of serving the state only in an extreme emergency and then only after all other available protective means have been exhausted. Major Colby T. Kittredge will be in charge of recruiting and will have a staff of men to assist him. Service men will be given the preference of enlisting, but civilians, physically fit also will be accepted.

MUNITION CONCERN COMING HERE

The board of trade announced today that plans had been practically perfected for the occupancy of several floors of the Burgess-Lang building in Middlesex street, which were vacated several months ago by the Snow Shoe company. The new tenant will be a well known munition concern which may in time take over the entire building. This concern originally intended to occupy the plant of the Newton Mfg. Co., but owing to difficulty in securing the desired arrangements in changing the Middlesex street building. Machinery will be installed at once and the details of employment announced by the company at a later date.

The new industries committee of the board of trade is in communication with a large western concern relative to the occupancy of the Newton plant.

KILLED ON BOULEVARD

One Killed and Two Injured When Automobile and Motorcycle Clash

One man was killed and two others seriously injured in a collision between an automobile and a motorcycle, which occurred on the Pawtucket boulevard this forenoon. The man killed is believed to be a Mr. Menard of Nashua, N. H., while the names of the others could not be learned owing to the fact that they are both still unconscious.

The accident occurred at about 11.30 o'clock at a point near the entrance to the Vesper-Country club, but at the time of going to press the cause of it could not be learned. The three injured men were placed in an automobile and rushed to the Lowell General hospital, but the man believed to be Menard of Nashua, N. H., died on his way to the institution. The other two injured were immediately placed in the operating room and at 2 o'clock this afternoon efforts to bring them back to consciousness failed. Medical Examiner T. H. Smith was called and in the clothing of the dead man he found a registration card of the Sacred Heart League of Nashua, N. H., bearing the name of Menard. The body was ordered removed to the funeral parlors of Undertakers Amodeo Archambault & Sons.

It was stated at the hospital this afternoon that although the two injured men were unconscious it was believed one of them would pull through all right, while very little hope was being entertained for the recovery of the other.

MAYOR IS BACK FROM PHILADELPHIA

Mayor Perry D. Thompson was back at his office at city hall this morning after an enjoyable week at Philadelphia with the Knights Templars. His Honor was accompanied by Mrs. Thompson. The week was a series of fetes and celebrations but the reception to General Pershing on Friday was the most wonderful thing of all, the mayor says. By fortunate chance the mayor and his party were seated at a table in one of the big Philadelphia hotels at the time of the parade in honor of the commander of the American forces and were able to see him very closely. He was preceded by the famous mounted policemen of the city and they made an excellent military appearance. The general was received at the Commercial club and addressed the thousands of people who had assembled there from one of the balconies of the building. The mayor had an opportunity to meet Mayor Smith of Philadelphia and had an extended talk with him. Mayor Smith's four-year term is just expiring but he cannot run for reelection owing to the regulations of Philadelphia's form of government. Food prices, both in Philadelphia and New York, are exceptionally high.

POLICE SAY NASSEN GOT BRADLEY'S WALLET

Charged with stealing $100 from Cornelius J. Bradley of Nashua, after Nassen pleaded not guilty before Judge Enright in police court this morning and a continuance was granted until Wednesday.

According to the police, Bradley met Nassen early last evening on Suffolk street and asked him if he would buy a pint of whiskey. Nassen allowed that he would, and Bradley pulled out his pocketbook, containing $100 in cash. Nassen grabbed the wallet and ran, the police say, and was arrested after a long chase by Patrolman Mahan in a house several streets away. The money has not yet been recovered.

Accused of stealing a quantity of tools, including wrenches, pliers, etc., from an unknown person, John J. Hines of Boston, pleaded not guilty and was held in $300 for hearing Sept. 22.

Mahomed Sugar pleaded guilty to being present at a game on the Lord's day and paid a fine of $5.

FEDERAL INCOME TAX COLLECTORS

Federal income tax collectors were at their office in the post office building today to receive the last payment on the third installment of the income tax. Efforts also were made to collect the fourth and last installment at this time and in many cases this was done.

There was no rush of people to get the third installment paid although there was a steady coming and going between the hours of 9 a. m. and 5 o'clock this afternoon. This is the last day of grace for this installment, but persons who neglected to visit the collectors may escape the penalty of tardiness if their check is sent to Boston tonight, addressed to John P. Mulley, collector. In other words, the post mark date of Sept. 15 is the only loop-hole if one has neglected this sacred duty.

The collectors stated this morning that the last day for the payment of the fourth and last installment of the tax levy falls on Dec. 15. Soda tax collectors are working about the city, but storekeepers who fall subject to this tax may save the collectors considerable chasing around if they will call at the tax office any morning between 11 and 12 o'clock and voluntarily pay this tax.

BOSTON, Sept. 15.—Reconstruction of the Boston police department, excluding patrolmen discharged for union affiliation or for participation in the strike, was begun by Police Commissioner Edwin U. PAGEANT AT NORMAL SCHOOL TOMORROW

The directors of the Community Service club for girls as well as the girls themselves hope that the weather tomorrow evening will be such as to allow them to present their well planned pageant on the grounds of the State Normal school in Broadway. If, however, the weather man turns a deal ear to their appeals for fair treatment the girls will turn toward the state armory in Westford street, where the pageant will be held at the same hour, 7.30 o'clock.

A dress rehearsal will be held tonight on the school grounds if clear and at the club rooms in the Rannels building, if stormy. The pageant is quite the most pretentious event yet planned by the club girls. They have worked hard in its preparation and have received competent coaching from Miss Katherine Cronin and other assistants. The days of witchcraft and other spooky things will be portrayed in song, dance and story.

Mr. Max Wolff and Miss Sarah Mariner were married yesterday noon at Boston, the ceremony being performed by Rabbi Friederman of Boston. The bride wore white georgette and carried a prayer book. She was attended by a sister of the bridegroom, Miss Leila Wolff, who wore pink georgette and carried a hat to match. The best man was Mr. Myer Stollhoff. After the ceremony a reception was held and present at the festivities were guests from Malden, Lowell and Medford. The couple left later on a honeymoon trip to New York and Atlantic City, and after Oct. 1 they will be at home to their friends at 123 Chelmsford street.

FARE COLLECTIONS ON PREACHED SERMON ON NEW ZONE LINES POLICEMEN'S STRIKE

The pay as you leave system of fare collection on the local street railway will again become operative to some extent when the new fare system becomes effective Sept. 25. Passengers boarding an outward bound car from Merrimack square on any point inside the new "city zone" limits will pay as they leave the car; passengers boarding an inward bound car from any point—that is, a car going to Merrimack square—will pay when entering the car, as at present. Fare collections outside of the city zone will be taken by the Bookie hand register, the present method.

The newly established city zone, as stated in this paper last week, in which tickets sold for $1 will be accepted, is as follows:

Gorham street line to Edison cemetery; Lawrence street to Junction of Woburn street; High street, entire route; Oakland line, entire route; Reading route, to Rymann road; Andover street line, to Clark road; Lawrence route, at point 1000 feet beyond city line; Christian Hill, entire route; Dracut Centre, to end of double track; Hovey square, entire route; Lakewood avenue, to Pleasant street; Moody street, entire route; Pawtucketville, entire route; Varnum avenue, as far as Magnolia street; Middlesex street, as far as Pawtucket street; Westford street, entire route; Highlands, entire route; Chelmsford Centre, to the city farm.

These tickets may be purchased at 20 different places in the city, which will be announced in the newspapers by the board of trade as soon as the board has selected the different stations. Posters, explaining the details of the new system were placed on the cars and in store windows today.

THE MAKING OF A FAMOUS MEDICINE

How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound
Is Prepared For Woman's Use.

A visit to the laboratory where this successful remedy is made impresses even the casual looker-on with the reliability, accuracy, skill and cleanliness which attend the making of this great medicine for woman's use.

Over 350,000 pounds of various herbs are used annually and all have to be gathered at the season of the year when their natural juices and medicinal substances are at their best.

The most successful solvents are used to extract the medicinal properties from these herbs.

Every utensil and tank that comes in contact with the medicine is sterilized and as a final precaution in cleanliness the medicine is pasteurized and sealed in sterile bottles.

It is the wonderful combination of roots and herbs, together with the skill and care used in its preparation which has made this famous medicine so successful in the treatment of female ills.

The letters from women who have been restored to health by the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound which we are continually publishing attest to its virtue.

Rev. A. R. Husey preached to his congregation at All Souls church yesterday morning on a text brought to his mind by the strike of policemen in Boston. His topic was "The Handwriting on the Wall" and the sermon was a splendid appeal for adherence to the doctrine of democracy and decent society.

In part he said:

"During the past week, through one of the oldest cities in the land, in one of the acknowledged centres of our national civilization, anarchy has stalked red-handed. Under the very walls of the Massachusetts State House, within sight of the Cradle of Liberty, crime suddenly broke loose. Theft, violence, murder even, became the order of the day. There are machine guns in Scollay Square, Faneuil Hall has been made a barracks. The streets, patrolled by armed soldiers, have been stained with human blood. In short, there is war instead of peace. For a night and a day the forces of evil gained supremacy and were only suppressed by the strong hand of military control. The most disgraceful element in the whole situation was this: The disaster was the result, not of an attack by foreign enemies, but of the defection of our own flesh and blood. The city's worst foes have been members of its own household. The recent disturbances have been brought about because the city's sworn defenders put self-interest above the public welfare. They broke their pledged word. They ignored their sworn duty for the sake of their personal desires. Like soldiers deserting in the face of the enemy, a majority of those comprising the Boston police force so far forgot their duty to the public whom they elected to serve, that they refused to work when the connection they had formed with the American Federation of Labor was forbidden by their superior officers. Denied permission to affiliate themselves to give up their jobs and walk out, rather than sacrifice themselves for honor and the public welfare.

"The action of these men deserves our undivided condemnation. To speak of it too severely is impossible. It is true that labor, no less than capital, has a right to organize for the furtherance of its own interests, the protection of its own inherent rights. But policemen are different from other laborers. They are public servants. Like the soldiers, they stand between the public and its enemies. They are on guard to suppress the lawless element in the community, leaving its inhabitants free to go about their peaceful occupations. They, moreover, are men under authority, and it is impossible for them to serve two masters.

"The most important fact about the strike of the Boston police is that it does not stand alone. It is the direct consequence of social sinning. It is a symptom of a dangerous disease now afflicting the body politic, a disease which, if suffered much longer to continue its ravages, can end only in death and dissolution. These men and their action are the products of that spirit of lawlessness which constitutes one of the worst perils now threatening American civilization, than which today no menace to our liberties is more formidable.

"The fact is, we, the people of this country, have as a rule taken our patriotism lightly and inadvisably. Carelessly and good-naturedly we have taken our citizenship for granted, with little serious understanding of the obligations it carried with it.

"What the country needs, what the community needs, is an increasing number of people, high souled, unselfish, brotherly, who are resolved to stand on no nonsense from labor, from capital, or any other party whose existence in any way threatens the sanctity and sanity of our national institutions, and what they stand for."

Shots Fired in South Boston

Continued

Labor, Frank H. McCarthy, New England organizer of the A. F. of L., and John P. McInnes, president of the police-men's union. The conferees declined to discuss what occurred at the meeting.

Report No General Strike

From New York, where President Gompers has been directing the federation's interests in the Boston strike, came word from one of his associates that there would be no general strike. Officers of the Central union here, however, said they knew of no decision to warrant such a statement that the proposal for a general strike was still before the union and that a decision would come with the completion of a poll of the several craft organizations. This poll is being taken secretly. It is not complete, several of the principal unions having yet to declare themselves. It is known that some of them voted to take sympathetic action; that others frowned upon it, and that more cautious unions postponed action until they saw how sentiment lay.

Remark Flight a Long One

The Central Labor union adjourned last night without calling a meeting in advance of its regular session next Sunday. This was accepted as an indication that union leaders regarded the fight as a long one in which they will take action only after mature consideration. Such consideration, it is understood, will include the advice of President Gompers and other leaders of the federation, who regard the fight in this city as entering the national question of police unions which were approved by the A. F. of L. at its last convention.

Suggests Recourse to Courts

Gov. Coolidge, refusing President Gompers' demand for the removal of Police Commissioner Curtis suggested that the police had recourse to the courts. If they felt their rights had been invaded by the commissioner's action in discharging the union leaders and declaring vacant the places of the men who left their posts. It is known that counsel for the policeman's union had considered and dismissed for the time being, the matter of calling upon the courts.

Conditions has been followed by removal of many of the barricades placed over store fronts after the looting in the early days of the strike. The number of state guardsmen on patrol was lessened today, but the troops still are in the city, concentrated at centers for availability as emergency reserves. In some sections bayoneted rifles were displaced by riot sticks to reduce the possibilities of serious consequences in minor collisions between citizens and guards.

Troops to Stay for Some Time

Preparations of the federal authorities to send federal troops into the city stood as an emergency precaution, but it was said that unless there were a general strike, there was no likelihood of their being called upon. The state troops, however, are likely to be on duty for some time as Commissioner Curtis said he could not hope to build up a new police force

Patrolmen Appointed

The development of the new police force with the regulars who remained on duty as a nucleus began today with the appointment of 20 patrolmen. The appointees, all war veterans and all certified by the civil service commission as having passed its examinations, reported for instruction, and it was said at police headquarters that they probably would be placed on patrol within a day or two.

The building up of the new force will not be hurried, according to James H. Devlin, Jr., counsel to the police commissioner. The reorganization will proceed, he said, in conformity with the civil service laws with the point in mind especially that the new men would be safeguarded in their places. Hasty action, he explained, might lead to technical errors in procedure which would make the status of the individuals and of the new body insecure.

130 Names Submitted

The civil service commission sent to Commissioner Curtis today a list of 130 names of men who have fulfilled its requirements. Of these men, 122 were veterans. The commission has on file applications from several hundred additional men who have not been called up for examination. These examinations will be held as soon as possible, it was said at the state house this morning.

1000 Places to Be Filled

Commissioner Curtis will have approximately 1000 places to fill. When the list of applicants qualified by the civil service is exhausted, the commissioner, by ruling of the attorney general, is authorized to complete his force by provisional appointment of any ex-service men who are residents of the state.

Shots Fired in South Boston

The South Boston district, previously the scene of serious rioting, was disturbed again this morning when, after state guardsmen were stoned from a rooftop, the soldiers fired several shots into the air. Investigation failed to disclose the persons responsible.

COOLIDGE'S REPLY

TO GOMPERS

BOSTON, Sept. 15.—Gov. Coolidge yesterday sent the following telegram in reply to the one received by him from Samuel Gompers:

Boston, Mass., Sept. 14, 1919.

Mr. Samuel Gompers, President Ameri-

can Federation of Labor, New York City.

Replying to your telegram: I have already refused to remove the police commissioner of Boston. I did not appoint him. He can assume no position which the courts would uphold except what the people have by the authority of their law vested in him. He speaks only with their voice.

The right of the police of Boston to affiliate has always been questioned, never granted, is now prohibited. The suggestion of President Wilson to Washington does not apply to Boston. There the police have remained on duty. Here the policemen's union, leaving their duty, an action which President Wilson characterized as a crime against civilization.

Your assertion that the commissioner was wrong cannot justify the wrong of leaving the city unguarded. That furnished the opportunity, the criminal element furnished the action. There is no right to strike against the public safety by anybody, anywhere, any time.

You ask that the public safety again be placed in the hands of these same policemen while they continue in disobedience to the laws of Massachusetts and in their refusal to obey the orders of the police department. Since then have been tried and removed others have abandoned their duty. Their places have under the law been declared vacant on the opinion of the attorney general. I can suggest no authority outside the courts to take further action.

I wish to join and assist in taking a broad view of every situation. A grave responsibility rests on all of us. You can depend on me to support you in every legal action and sound policy. HONOR CARD. MERCIER 22

Pontifical Mass at Baltimore
—Belgian Prelate Lauds
Card. Gibbons

BALTIMORE, Sept. 15.—Not since the opening of the last great Catholic council has there been such a brilliant and imposing scene in the historic Baltimore cathedral as the pontifical mass and ceremonies there yesterday in honor of Cardinal Mercier, the Belgian primate. Cardinal Mercier preceded Cardinal Gibbons in the procession of prelates, priests, papal noblemen and seminarians.

In his first public address in this country Cardinal Mercier said:
"This city of Baltimore is the cradle of the Catholic faith in the new world and I have the honor of being the guest of that wonderful man who is the most glorious witness of Catholic faith in the new world."

TWO HURT AS PLANE
CRASHES INTO TREE

SPRINGFIELD, Sept. 15.—Lieut. Thomas B. Haggerty of New Haven, an aviator, was severely injured and A. L. Litch of the Y.M.C.A., an ex-prefect and passenger in Haggerty's plane, had a narrow escape from death when the airplane in which they were riding crashed into a clump of trees at the Eastern states exposition grounds this afternoon.

The tail of the machine struck a part of the fair grounds fence as it was rising and the plane swooped into the trees. Litch broke the straps which held him in the machine and jumped, receiving only bruises. Lieut. Haggerty was pinned in the wreckage of the machine when it struck the ground.

The machine caught fire and Litch hauled the aviator from the crumpled plane just in time to save his life. Lieut. Haggerty was taken to Springfield hospital and then to his home in New Haven.

The machine, which was totally wrecked, was guarded by State Guardsmen with fixed bayonets after the big crowd, which attended the concert on the fair grounds had picked the plane almost to pieces, hunting for souvenirs.

WENT OVER EMBANKMENT
An automobile, the name of the owner of which could not be learned, crashed into the fence at the corner of Moody street and Colonial avenue yesterday afternoon and went down the embankment toward the river. The accident occurred when the operator, in an attempt to avoid striking an electric car lost control of his steering wheel. Fortunately no one was injured and no damage was caused to the car. Later in the afternoon the automobile was brought back to the road and the driver was able to resume his trip.

GOVERNORS URGES
NATIONAL BUDGET
NEW YORK, Sept. 15.—Governors of 22 states, in statements made public last night by the national budget committee, advocate that congress adopt the national budget system to eradicate federal extravagance in the administration of the nation's business.

Maintaining that the present "loose and haphazard administration of the finances of the United States will result in national bankruptcy," the governors say that this country is the only great government in the world without a budget system, and declare that 41 states of the union already have adopted the system.

To remedy conditions, the governors made the following suggestions:

1. Demand executive responsibility for the national budget.
2. Establish a bureau of the budget to draw up estimates of governmental expenses.
3. Provide for congressional consideration of money bills by single committees of the house and senate or a joint committee of the two.
4. Limit money bills to actual needs and do away with "pork" and "log-rolling."

Governors of Maine, Massachusetts and Rhode Island were among those who joined in advocating the budget system.

GERMAN ACTIVITY IN VENEZUELA REPORTED

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, Sept. 9. (Correspondence of the Associated Press).—American travelers who recently have arrived here from Venezuela report that there are open evidences of renewed German activity in that country. Many Germans have arrived in Venezuela lately and German commercial travelers are reported particularly active. They represent all lines of industry. As one man who returned from Venezuela last week said:

"If I want to sell clothing at $15 a suit to the Venezuelan merchants, a German salesman has something just as good for $12 or $13. If I offer 30 days or six months' credit, the German offers six months or a year. In every line it is the same way. They are offering to take orders for all classes of manufactured goods and promise prompt delivery. Many Germans are arriving in Venezuela evidently prepared to settle there and make it their home."

FROM BULL RING TO POLITICAL ARENA

GUADALAJARA, Spain. (Correspondence of the Associated Press).—"From the bull ring to the political arena" would make a fitting title to the history of the life of Luis Mazzantini, former torero who has just been appointed governor of this province by King Alphonso XIII.

When Mazzantini retired from the ring in 1903 he was one of the most famous toreros in Spain. Born in Elguibar in Northern Spain of a well-to-do family, the new governor was sent to the University of Salamanca where he obtained his degree of doctor in law. It was during his university days after a wager engaged in with some of student companions that he first faced the bull in the arena. He acquitted himself very creditably and the plaudits which he received from the multitude completely turned his head away from dusty law books and stuffy court rooms. His earnings soon eclipsed that of the reigning toreros of the day as he received 6000 to 7000 pesetas for each performance. In 1907 he accounted for 165 bulls for an income of 400,000 pesetas.

Since his retirement in 1903, Mazzantini has been prominent in local politics. He is a conservative.

LOWELL EAGLES GATHER AT WILLOW DALE

The annual outing of the Lowell Aerie, Fraternal Order of Eagles, was held yesterday at Willow Dale, and fully 500 members of the organization found plenty of enjoyment in the varied program mapped out for the day which included speech-making by candidates for city and state offices, sports of all kinds, and last but by no means least a clam bake "as was a clam-bake."

The members made the trip in the forenoon, some by auto and others by trolley. Worthy President David Hackett, assisted by Peter F. Brady, and the ever-busy Secretary John M. Hogan, looked after the various details which the successful running of an outing entails, and Caterer Lydon provided the "eats."

During the afternoon George F. Menahan, democratic candidate for governor, addressed the members, and several other candidates spoke briefly. The sporting events of the day resulted as follows:

One hundred yard dash, won by Jack Thomas, with Edward Rogers second.

Hot, step and jump, won by Jack Thomas.

A wrestling match between Alfred Beauchamp and Joseph Letourneau was won by Beauchamp.

Boxing match between Tip Quinn and E. Donlan; declared a draw.

Boxing match between "Happy" Conley and Thomas Falls; Falls was the winner.

The boat race was won by Frank Murphy, with Jack Crane second.

The tug of war was won by a team consisting of Louis Cote, Charles Berard, M. D. Rouher, J. Donohoe and Dennis McCluskey.

The committee having charge of the outing consisted of the following: Peter F. Brady, chairman; Timothy P. Barry, Martin J. Crowe, John A. Callahan, James J. Bowen, William F. Carey, George W. Carey, Thomas J. Collins, William J. Durham, Richard J. Flynn, Joseph Hughes, John H. Driscoll, Joseph Kenney, William James, Omer Larue, Frank Murphy, Cornelius T. O'Keefe, John M. Pipard, Alfred St. Onge, James J. Ward, Edward D. B. Smith, James F. Roark, John O'Loughlin, William A. Mack, Thomas P. Quinn, W. P. David, J. Hackett and Secretary John M. Hogan.

TO DECIDE ALL BOXING
CHAMPIONSHIPS

NEW YORK, Sept. 15.—An elaborate program for the deciding of amateur and professional boxing championships in all weights and classes is provided for by the International Sporting club, the formation of which was announced here yesterday. The club, working in conjunction with the army, navy and civilian board of boxing control, proposed to stage a series of tournaments and by a process of elimination develop a champion in every weight class for professionals and amateurs including numerous industrial and service divisions.

The tentative schedule, which depends to some extent upon the completion of the $500,000 clubhouse early in February, calls for a match of ten rounds between Jimmy Wilde and some selected contender on the opening night. In addition there will be a series of six round contests between heavyweight novices who will appear by invitation. The list as arranged at present includes the leading heavies developed in the army and the winner will be awarded a gold cup the gift of Anthony J. Drexel Biddle, president of the club.

Six round bouts for the world heavyweight championship of both the army and navy will also be a feature of the opening night. In these matches the heavyweight champion of the American and British armies will meet for a belt presented by Major-General Leonard Wood while the champions of the two navies will box for World's Navies heavyweight championship and an emblematic belt, the gift of Admiral W. S. Sims.

The feature contests of following weeks February will include elimination contests of six rounds each to decide the middle weight, welterweight and lightweight champions of America. In these matches the leading contenders will box six rounds and the winners shall pass on to the semi-final of eight rounds. In the final the champion, or the boxer generally credited with such title, will face the survivor in a ten round bout for a special championship trophy. All bouts will be decided upon a point basis, being judged by two or more judges appointed for that purpose.

According to the sponsors of the club a large number of the leading professional boxers of both this country and Europe have signified their willingness to appear under the conditions outlined and in the case of the recognized champions, to defend their titles for the new championship belts.

The actual matching of the professional boxers will be directed by G. J. (Tex) Rickard, whose success in promoting (tular ring contests on a large scale has made him famous throughout the boxing world.

Similar methods will be inaugurated in the amateur and industrial classes. Belts or other trophies have been donated by prominent men for more than 50 divisions of industrial boxers who will be divided into feather, light, middle and heavyweight classes. Tournaments will be staged both in New York and other cities with the ultimate survivors meeting for the championship belt in their industrial division. The classes include automobile, ship builders, iron and copper miners, lumberers, coopers, carpenters, upholsterers, wood workers, railroad men and scores of others. The amateur, club and industrial boxers will be under the direction of Frederick W. Ruben, secretary of the Amateur Athletic union, who will arrange for all such tournaments and supervise the staging of championships as well as national elimination contests such as the Olympic games try-out, which will be necessary early in 1920.

EVER
FANNIE
HURST?

She's the highest priced short story writer in the world. She has collected "THE HEART OF HUMANITY," starring Dorothy Phillips in Allen Holubar's super-production. Read what Miss Hurst says:

"I saw 'The Heart of Humanity' last night, and I want to give you a piece of my mind about it. First, I think it is the finest achievement that the screen has yielded up so far—also aside from a fine moving picture story, I learned a vast amount about modern armament."

"There is a moment in that picture that is going to thrill down the spinal column of the world. I refer to the dog scene, one of the greatest photoplay moments I have ever enjoyed. Dorothy Phillips is more than a sweetly charming; she is a rare combination of sheer youth and deep emotionalism and one of the really sincere artists of the screen. She and her splendid supporting cast, together with the big artistic direction and production, round out the picture into a masterpiece."

THE POLICE STRIKE

The refusal of Police Commissioner Curtis to reinstate the striking policemen has elicited very general approval and appears to be fully warranted under the statutes and in view of the situation. Nevertheless, in some quarters, it is criticized as being harsh, but the police being in fact a military body stand now in the light of deserters.

We hope, however, that the labor organizations of Boston will not renew their threat of a sympathetic strike to force the commissioner to take back the men that would only precipitate a conflict in which the entire force of the state and nation would be pitted against organized labor. Nothing could be more futile than any attempt on the part of labor unions to overrule the power of the state in this particular case.

The patriotic spirit of the people has been aroused and they will back the governor and the police commissioner in whatever course they may adopt in accordance with law for reorganizing the police force of Boston and giving the citizens the protection to which they are entitled.

There is much surprise at the remark of Mr. Gompers when told that Commissioner Curtis had decided not to reinstate the policemen who went out on strike. "I suppose Mr. Curtis will be willing to assume responsibility for the consequences," was Mr. Gompers' only comment.

That seems to convey a veiled threat of a sympathetic strike and we are astonished that Mr. Gompers should put himself in the attitude of countenancing any such possibility.

It is now announced by labor leaders that there will be no sympathetic strike, but it is limited at the same time, that the police can organize a union within their own body and strike if they so desire.

We are to understand from this that the menace of a police strike has not been removed and that being the case, it may be necessary for the governor to call the legislature together to pass a law prohibiting strikes by policemen in any part of the state and fixing a penalty for violation. Any such law should also include the firemen inasmuch as a strike of firemen might prove even more disastrous than a police strike.

But, should any such law be enacted, due provision should be made for allowing the policemen and firemen to present their grievances and their demands in a public manner and to provide also a proper tribunal for settlement of such demands by arbitration or otherwise. The time has come when no city in this commonwealth or in fact in the United States can afford to take the risk of being thrown into temporary anarchy through a strike of the men employed to enforce law and order or to protect the city against conflagrations whether due to arson or any other cause.

Every other city in the state is liable to have troubles similar to that which Boston has experienced during the last week if the law does not prohibit strikes by policemen and firemen.

Some arrangements will also be necessary to control the employees of other public utilities such as railroad men, telegraph and telephone operators and some other crafts. Compulsory arbitration seems to offer the only solution and The Sun has been steadily advocating this policy for the last twenty-five years. If it were adopted the nation would not be at the mercy of the railroad brotherhoods who can tie up transportation and paralyze industry throughout the entire nation, it at any time, they decide to call a strike as they did a short time ago.

As a result of the war apparently and the success of Bolshevism in some parts of Europe, it appears that there is an element in this country determined to make trouble for our government whenever possible. They seem to think that by keeping up this trouble, they will eventually succeed in establishing here the soviet form of government under which Russia is at present groaning and which is nothing more than a form of organized anarchy.

But we will have no Bolshevism in this country and wherever it lifts its head it will be promptly suppressed by the strong arm of the law, backed by whatever force may be necessary, even if the United States army has to be called out for the purpose. It was something of this spirit that led to the Boston police strike and it was this element that came out in its true colors to engage in plunder and rapine when the strike was declared.

The people of this commonwealth now find a danger at their doors far more treacherous and unrelenting than what they supposed to be possible. They are determined that it shall be held to a strict observance of law if not banished from our soil. It would be a sorry day for the labor organizations that would champion the cause of such an element even though harsh methods be adopted to stamp out lawlessness.

THE PRIMARIES

Political candidates are now actively appealing for support and it is well for the voters who have to settle the various contests to consider well the eligibility of the aspirants who ask for support and in every case to select the man who is most likely to prove a worthy representative of the people.

Far too seldom does the average voter realize that upon his shoulders rests a share of the responsibility for the government of city, state and nation. Under our glorious constitution the sovereignty rests with the people guaranteeing equal rights to all citizens. The man who works in the coal mine, on the farm or down in the trenches in our city streets has the same political power when he goes to the polling booth as has the president of the United States. It is largely in the use made of this power that good citizenship consists. Too often it happens that citizens who should go to the polls and exercise the franchise for the promotion of good government, remain at home as if indifferent, leaving all contests to be decided by those who vote.

This is the very class of voters which will freely criticize the acts of elected officials but men who shirk their own political duty should never open their mouths to criticize others for similar shortcomings. If abuses come as a result of political corruption the men who do not vote at the primaries and on election day are partly to blame.

The primary elections are supposed to be of slight importance, but in reality they are fundamentally significant as it is there that the candidates are chosen to be voted for on election day. If the better class of candidates is defeated and the less desirable nominated the error cannot be remedied on election day. It is to be hoped, therefore, that in view of the necessity of sending safe and conservative men to Beacon Hill every voter in this city will do his full duty in the primaries by exercising wise judgment in selecting candidates for nomination.

Men of ultra-radical tendencies should not be supported. At the present time the demands of the hour are for safe and conservative men who will deal with all public questions in a fair, calm and dispassionate manner. The aftermath of the war has brought to the front, questions of the most momentous character, which only men of high intelligence and business experience can deal with in an acceptable way.

Lowell is comparatively free from political corruption and the voters as a rule have shown fairly good judgment in selecting their state officials, but not for many years has there been a time when there is such an urgent call for public officials of the right stamp, men who will have the courage to fight socialism and Bolshevism in every form and be ready at all times to stand firmly for the rights and interests of the people, for the principles of freedom laid down in our constitution and for promoting respect and loyalty to the flag, the sacred emblem of our liberties.

FOOD PRICES

It is announced that the United States is exporting twice as much as is being imported. There is a great demand from the European nations, ravaged by war, for manufactured products to help rebuild their shattered homes and resume normal conditions.

Mr. Hoover makes the statement that the ports of northern Europe are filled with shipments of food for which there is no market because of a lack of credit by the nations for which the cargoes are intended. It would seem that this export of food has been carried to excess and as a result prices are higher than they might be. It seems that the government might step in to limit the exports and thus promote the downward trend of prices.

Government departments have obtained evidence that prices already have begun to decline and that unless kept up by real or artificial scarcity this tendency should continue until a much lower level is reached. The government is doing much to stop profiteering and to bring the goods hoarded in cold storage into the open market. The one article of food that does not yield to the downward tendency is wheat, so that the cost of flour is almost as high as it was months ago.

The proposition has been made to have the government use its great fleets of motor trucks to assist in bringing products from the farmer direct to the consumer, but many difficulties make this scheme almost impracticable. Thus far the result of the government campaign for lower prices and against profiteering has been fairly successful and if the people do their part in the practice of economy and square dealing there is no reason why more substantial results cannot be obtained within the next few months.

CARMEN'S CASE

The threatened strike of the street carmen has been temporarily postponed and we are inclined to believe that the men will decide not to strike at all under the circumstances. It is true that they have good ground for complaint, but in our judgment they will find it the better course to continue agitating for what they desire rather than to resort to a strike, which would greatly inconvenience the public and perhaps also alienate public sympathy which is now very generally on the side of the employees.

It is also to be considered that the road now is practically under state control and that the company would not be the loser by a strike to the extent that it would under private ownership. This very fact might bring about a situation under which the strike would be of much longer duration than the men had expected. Moreover there are serious times in which to go into voluntary idleness in order to gain a slight increase in wages. Should a strike be declared the men themselves and their families would suffer immeasurably more than any other class. Their self-interests should induce them to put off the strike indefinitely, while still seeking other methods to secure the increase that has been denied them.

14 NEW POINTS

Despite what befell his famous fourteen points for the settlement of the war, President Wilson has brought fourteen new points presenting in tabloid form the chief provisions of the League of Nations as interpreted by the president himself. These points setting forth what changes the league is expected to bring about are as follows:

1. It will make certain the destruction of autocratic powers of international control.
2. It substitutes publicity, discussion and arbitration for war.
3. It provides for the boycotting of any and all offending powers that provoke war against an association power.
4. It proposes plans to place the world under an international oversight.
5. It abolishes private fights.
6. It compels the disarmament of all the great fighting nations of the present day.
7. It will insure the emancipation of all the oppressed people of the world.
8. It will prevent the annexation of territory anywhere.
9. It will care for the enslaved and helpless women and children of the world.
10. It will make invalid every secret treaty.
11. It provides that there shall be no private understandings of any kind between nations that any other nation is bound to respect.
12. It will provide protection for defenseless people.
13. It will extend the right standard of American labor everywhere in the world.
14. It will place under the control of the League of Nations every humane agency, like the Red Cross, the control of opium and liquor habits, the making of arms and ammunition and other protective industries for the benefit of mankind.

Well, if the league would accomplish one-half what is claimed for it in those points, it would in a great degree compensate for the awful sacrifices of the war, but unfortunately the president's views in this regard are not generally accepted.

MAN ABOUT TOWN

Although it will be a month next Thursday that Lowell residents ordered food from the government through the postal department, the staff has not yet been delivered, and the result is that many families are very indignant over the delay, which they believe is unnecessary. I was informed the other day by a friend from Worcester that the residents of that city had received their supply of food, while other districts have also been served, but apparently Lowell is not on the map of the government officials who are in charge of the delivery, for nothing as yet has been done in filling Lowell orders. The postal department, so I understand, is laying the blame on the army department, while the latter claim postal officials are at fault. Be that as it may, however, it might be well for the postal and army departments to come together and see that the Lowell orders are delivered.

A Lowell young man who daily commutes between this city and Boston, told me the following story, which accurately shows the spirit of civic-minded Bostonians when a thug attempts to operate in broad daylight just because the city is without its full police protection: "It was on Portland street, day before last. I was walking toward the North station when I saw a man dart from a doorway, lift a watch from the vest of a passerby and speed away down the street. Two policemen, one a regular and the other a volunteer, pounced on him like two cats—the volunteer in such a manner as to indicate college football training. While the regular officer hurried to a nearby box to send for a patrol wagon the 'rookie' held the thief by the neck of his coat. Not well versed in all the tricks of the footpad trade the volunteer saw his prisoner break away by the old method of slipping out of his coat. He was off again down the middle of the street, but he had gone only a few yards before three civilians sprang from the sidewalk and dragged him to earth. Their ranks were joined by several others, all anxious to 'take a crack' at the thug. The patrol came along just then and the volunteer, who held the prisoner's coat as proof of his earlier capture, dropped and stooping over lifted the thief by the name of the neck and the seat of the trousers and with a giant swing deposited him on the floor of the patrol wagon. It was the prettiest piece of forward passing I have had the pleasure of seeing for many a year."

As an interesting sidelight to the sugar situation, which, by the way, is experiencing no change in the city, there being just as great a scarcity now as at any time during the past month, is that among the substitutes for the white granulated kind the light brown sugar is entirely missing. There is plenty of dark brown to be had, but it has a taste of molasses and cannot be used for cooking or eating with any degree of success. The light brown variety, however, which used to be so prevalent, would make a temporary substitute for white granulated for cooking purposes and even for canning to some degree. The storekeepers say they are unable to get the light brown, however, any easier than they can put through orders for white.

Policemen on Merrimack square heats say that the somewhat recent traffic signs, forbidding parking in Prescott street and sections on the square and Merrimack street are having good effect, although there is much chance for further improvement. Every now and then a driver slips his car in a restricted area and immediately others follow suit, secure in the belief that it is right for them if the first fellow can get away with it. But the situation is 75 per cent. improved and it is safe to say that within a short time all signs of traffic congestion will disappear from the vicinity of the square. We do believe, however, that the present signs are woefully wanting. Some of them say: "No Parking—Police Order." Far better would it be, if they were larger and more emphatic.

Last year Columbus day found the city closed up tight for the "indus" epidemic was on in full blast. Theatres and soda shops were closed, public meetings were abandoned and the Knights of Columbus, as I recall it, abandoned their short parade to church in the morning. The day was gloomy and uncertain and the sun hidden behind clouds. Doctors were running to and fro. My wanderings that day took me to a distant part of the city and there I found the white-robed sisters of Notre Dame paying a visit to the sick in the neighborhood and giving of their helpful service despite the epidemic. Of course, none of us wants a return of the epidemic this fall and health authorities are agreed that the one way to guard against it is for each individual to look out for his own health so that we may all enter into the pleasures of this year's autumn holidays with a zest.

SEEN AND HEARD

Nothing like a little frisky fall weather to bring back the old "pep."

Midnight tonight is set as the deadly hour for the 1919 passing of the good and faithful straw hat.

"It is better to marry a woman older than yourself than to tie up with one younger whom you have to train," Michael Sannes, age 43, said when he applied for a marriage license to wed Anne Paulsen, age 73, New York.

That state guardsman who found difficulty in differentiating between politicians and bums while doing riot duty in Boston is a fit subject either for an eye specialist or a chair of psychology in some endowed university.

While the constitution sets down as among the rights of grown-ups life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness, it does not in the latter include the right to tie a can to a dog's tail, according to Magistrate Rohleder of Baltimore, who fined Mark Smith $11.70 for canning a pup.

Harry Gonzales, Attention!

Nobody ever found out who hit Billy Patterson, and few among us know how old Ann was—but—and we ask this in all earnestness—who knows if fish can milk a cow? Mrs. James Dobbins of Newton, N. J., owns a Jersey cow, and for several months, on Tuesday and Friday of each week, the cow has been allowed to spend the afternoon bathing and cooling in a small lake. On those evenings no milk could be obtained. At first they thought some tramp had milked her. They watched. No tramp disturbed the cow's slumber in the shallow water of the lake, but a closer inspection of the water revealed numerous fish swimming about the cow. Mrs. Dobbins wants to know: "Can a fish milk a cow?"

The Pawtucket Bridge

Perhaps the ordinary resident of Lowell is not aware of the fact that the ornate and aesthetic Pawtucket bridge which now spans Pawtucket falls is the fourth of its kind to do service to the thousands of people who daily cross from the center of the city into Pawtucketville. However, that is the fact stated in the 1918 city auditor's report which has just been made public. "The first bridge in this section was built in 1782 and was then known as the Merrimack river bridge. It was a wooden structure and cost $5000. In 1801 it was rebuilt with stone abutments at a cost of $14,000. In 1871 the bridge was again rebuilt, this time with iron and stone abutments, the cost being $10,135.55. The town of Dracut paid $15,000 of this amount. Then in 1918 the present modern structure was erected at a cost of $151,000.

Youthful Traffic "Gop"

Lowell people have told many interesting features of the strike noted by them in Boston, but the incident noted and related by Harry P. Kuapp, president and treasurer of the Talbot Dye-wood & Chemical company, is decidedly out of the ordinary and brings to the front an unknown youth, who, judging from the story, was born to be a leader of men. The little scene in which this hero boy figured was enacted at the corner of Devonshire and State streets. Traffic was very heavy at this point and there was nobody on hand to control it. The congestion was becoming more serious every minute and finally, above the tumult, was heard the voice of a boy commanding attention. He was a barefoot lad and not more than 12 years old. Probably he had watched the traffic officer at that particular corner, but be that as it may, he took up his position where the traffic officer always stood and proceeded to business. "There was a something about that boy," said Mr. Kuapp, "that demanded attention and everybody from the pedestrian to the driver of the big truck obeyed his every command. It was wonderful the way he handled automobiles, teams and pedestrians, and I doubt if any traffic officer in Boston or elsewhere could have improved upon his work. After he had straightened things out, and it didn't take him long, a mighty cheer went up from a crowd of men and women who had watched him from a

RECORD GATHERING OF NEWSPAPERMEN

SYDNEY, Australia (Correspondence of the Associated Press).—The largest international assemblage of newspapermen ever gathered in any city in the world is expected at the Peace Congress of the World, to be held here Oct. 15, 1920. Two hundred of them are expected to come from North and South America and delegates are expected from all portions of the British empire. Large parties of newspapermen in India, China and Japan have promised to be present.

In connection with the congress, routes for world tours are to be prepared by transportation agents acting in behalf of the New South Wales government, and it is expected that large reductions will be made in passenger fares.

The congress is to follow a meeting of the British Empire Press union in Canada in September, 1920, and the delegates should arrive in Australia in the spring of the southern half of the world. This will permit visits to tropical Queensland before hot weather sets in.

The congress is likely to be engaged in business discussions at Sydney for about ten days. Excursions in New South Wales are planned before and after the session, and later visitors are to be given an opportunity to attend the yearly racing carnival at Melbourne during the first week in November. It is announced that every thing possible will be done by the press and people of Australia to make representative men from foreign countries understand Australians and their methods of life.

Membership of the congress embraces all who are engaged in press work. It is proposed to divide the sessions here into a series of conventions, each dealing with some branch of newspaper activity.

Dr. Walter Williams of the University of Missouri, Columbia, Mo., is president of the congress, and Captain J. W. Nesbigh of the premier's office, Sydney, will be official secretary and representative of the New South Wales government in matters connected with the congress.

RESUME PRE-WAR CODE

Competition for Commercial
Conquest of Germany is
Well Under Way

LONDON, (Correspondence of the Associated Press)—American and British foreign trade interests have resumed their accustomed pre-war code and the competition for the commercial conquest of Germany and other recently enemy countries is well under way.

This is freely admitted by representatives here of both American and British trade bodies. The London head of one American business men's organization said:

"The business man reasons it out this way: 'Eventually—perhaps in a year from now—we shall have resumed normal trade relations with those nations which were, until a few months ago, our enemies. Why not get busy now—if I don't, someone else will.' So sentimental considerations are eliminated. The dollar and the pound once more are what business is seeking."

A sharpness of competition unapproached in pre-war days will characterize the conduct of foreign trade activities during the next few years. It is generally conceded. America's possession of raw materials, her facilities for quantity production and the fact that her industrial machinery is not so clogged with strikes and other labor disturbances which are so seriously impairing British trade, it is thought, ensures the United States a fair proportion of this business.

But it is pointed out that a voluminous foreign trade will be essentially a "new game" and British traders feel that lack of experience will offset, in a measure, the advantages indicated which now favor American trade bidders.

FOCH'S SON KILLED

PARIS, Sept. 1 (Correspondence of the Associated Press)—Marshal Foch has asked the Belgian government to have a search made for the body of his son, who was killed in August, 1911, in the Belgian Ardennes. He has refrained religiously from mentioning his lost son and few knew that the younger Foch was killed early in the war.

GRECIAN COIF FOR
CLASSIC PROFILE

Written Especially for The Sun.
BY BARBARA BURKE,
Editor of "Beauty Culture."

Choosing the style of hairdressing that suits your particular type of beauty is the one vital thing to remember. There was never a time when the styles of hairdressing were so elastic as now. Any style is correct, so long as it fits your particular type of beauty.

For the well-shaped head, the high brow, and the classic profile, a simple Grecian hairdress is the very best. Let the hair fall in natural waves, and make it into a simple knot at the back. Do not pile it high, or wear false hair, or overawe it, or stick it out about the ears.

The object should be to let it follow the outline of the head—to reveal the shape of the head, and frame the face naturally.

The woman with a beautifully shaped head has little trouble with her hairdressing. All she needs to remember is to allow it to follow naturally the outline of the head and to dress it simply.

solutions, and if used must be neutralized after the stain is out, by using an alkali.

Wool and silk require more care than cotton. Alkalies and much rubbing is destructive to both silk and wool. Colored materials require more careful treatment than white.

The best place to remove stains, and to keep the supply of removers, and the equipment for the work, is the laundry.

The equipment consists of large and smaller porcelain or pottery bowls over which the stained material is stretched, a medicine dropper, for applying the stain remover in small quantities, a small tub or bowl for rinsing, soap, a soft, absorbent pad or blotting paper sheets, and the various bottles and containers for the chemicals used.

Ordinary laundering, with a little extra care, will serve to remove minor stains. First soak the stain in cold, or lukewarm water, and rub with a mild soap. Rinse in clear water, then launder as usual.

For delicate materials stains are best removed by sponging.

Put a heavy absorbent pad, or blot-

STAINS NOT HOPELESS!
TREAT 'EM THIS WAY

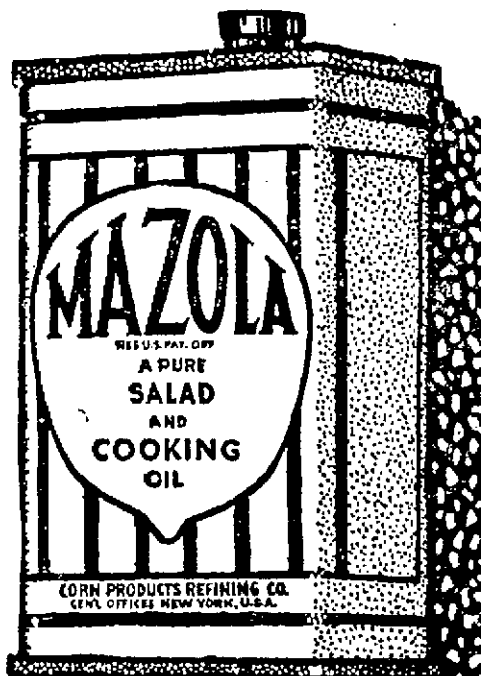

With the cost of materials and clothing at its present height, a stain on a garment is a real tragedy.

But only a temporary tragedy.

Practically every stain may be removed by proper treatment. The good housewife will learn to fit the treatment to the spot and waste no tears over ruined articles or throw away any garment because it is spotted or stained. The first essential in stain removal is prompt treatment. Drying, exposure to air, laundering, and aging all add to the difficulties of stain removal.

The second essential is to know the cause of the stain—the nature of the trouble must be known before a treatment is applied. Using the wrong remover may set the stain and make its eradication impossible.

Also, stains are treated differently in different textiles or fabrics. Cotton and linen are often destroyed by acid

The Ford was put out of commission and had to be towed to a garage, while the Buick suffered damage to one of its mud guards.

IMPROVEMENT IN
FRANCE'S BIRTHRATE

PARIS (Correspondence of the Associated Press)—France's declining birthrate has lately been a source of much concern but a distinct improvement has been noticed during the present month.

Evidence of a great decline in births in 1915 was shown in official figures for the district of the Seine, which includes the city of Paris, which showed that there are only 43,150 births registered in that district in 1915 as compared to the 73,599 in 1911.

The infantile death rate given by statistics is 40 per cent as compared to 10 per cent before the war. This has been attributed to the scarcity of wet nurses and poor quality and shortage of milk for bottle-fed babies. This shortage is said to be due to the tremendous increase in cheese making, especially in Normandy.

However, all the maternity hospitals in Paris reported increased births thus far in the present month. In one hospital the number has doubled those of last year and it is declared that babies are remarkable for size, weight and general health. A new periodical entitled Marriage has just appeared. It announces that it will devote itself to the question of the repopulation of

France which is generally recognized to be one of the most urgent problems of the day. It asks its readers "what means should be adopted to combat the present matrimonial crisis in France?"

MASS CELEBRATED IN CRADLE OF LIBERTY

BOSTON, Sept. 15.—For the first time in history mass was celebrated yesterday in historic Faneuil hall when the Rev. John W. Culhane, S.T.L., of the Holy Cross cathedral, conducted services for the Catholic members of the state guard now policing Boston. The hall was filled with guardsmen, and they were given good, sound advice regarding their duty to God and country by Fr. Culhane in his short sermon.

"These are perilous times," counseled Fr. Culhane, who is chaplain of the Tenth regiment of the state guard. "God and Country should be your slogan. Our catechism teaches us that we are in this world to love and serve God. God means constituted authority."

He counseled the men to do all their duties in the same faithful manner they have performed them in these trying days in Boston. He asked all those at the mass to pray for peace and order in Boston and all over the world.

An improvised altar of chairs and tables was used, and Fr. Culhane came equipped with his regulation chaplain's kit. Most of the worshippers at the service in Faneuil hall were members of the 20th regiment, which is made up of residents of Springfield, Holyoke, Northampton, Pittsfield and other communities in the western part of the state. Most of the regimental officers attended, regardless of their religious affiliations. Col. Warner, commander of the regiment, was also present.

The mass in Faneuil hall was at 9 o'clock. It was a low mass. Then Fr. Culhane proceeded to the East armory on East Newton street, where he conducted another service. Colonel Thomas F. Sullivan and other officers of the Tenth regiment attended this mass.

5000 GREET DE VALERA AT PROVIDENCE

PROVIDENCE, Sept. 15.—Eamon De Valera, greeted as the president of the Irish republic, was given a demonstrative reception at a mass meeting of 5000 people at Melrose park yesterday afternoon. He returned from Newport on the yacht of Mrs. John H. Hanan, and at 2.30 was escorted to the ball grounds in Elmwood by several hundred uniformed Irish volunteers, a brass band and marching civilians. Thousands of spectators lined the streets along the 2 1/2-mile parade.

De Valera was guarded by a number of police inspectors headed by Chief O'Neill. The crowd at the mass meeting filled the grandstands, the bleachers and a larger part of the gardens. The colors of the Irish republic waved at every point in the enclosure and like magic most everyone was adorned with the official button of the new republic.

Miles A. McNamee called the meeting to order and presented Congressman Ambrose Kennedy of the Third Rhode Island district as chairman. Kennedy bitterly arraigned President Wilson and denounced the League of Nations. He was wildly cheered when he predicted the senate would never approve the covenant. Mayor Gainer of Providence paid tribute to De Valera and spoke hopefully of the result of his mission to this country. Henry Boland, De Valera's secretary, was presented as a member of the Dail Threann from South Roscommon. His narration of recent events in Ireland drew frequent cheers. There were several minutes of cheering when De Valera reached the platform. He devoted much time to the act of union and denounced it as one of fraud and corruption. He said Ireland would be compromised if America adopted the League of Nations. He said he appealed to the American people but to the Irish people in this country. In particular, urging them to let England know that she must not treat Ireland as she is doing today.

Thomas F. Cooney of the welcome committee said there was no excuse for the failure of the United States to come to the aid of Ireland. A resolution he presented to be sent to the United States senate protesting against the League of Nations was adopted with vociferous cheering.

NEW SALVATION ARMY LEADERS WELCOMED

Adjutant and Mrs. Robert Klepzig, the new officers of the local Salvation army corps, made their initial bow to a Lowell audience on Saturday night. The new leaders were enthusiastically welcomed. An unusual big open air rally was conducted on Saturday night at the corner of Jackson and Central streets. The large audience enjoyed the selections and songs played by the Lowell band and listened with strict attention to the appeal made by Adj. Klepzig for Christian lives. At eight o'clock at the Salvation Army citadel on Jackson street, the first service conducted by the new officers took place. The adjutant, termed it a getting-acquainted meeting. Sergt. Maj. Wilson, for many years a local officer of the corps, led the preliminaries and many speeches of welcome were made by members of the local corps. Adj. and Mrs. Klepzig were then introduced by Sergt. Maj. Wilson, who expressed his pleasure in being able to present to a Lowell audience such experienced officers as Adj. and Mrs. Klepzig. The new officers were accorded a great ovation. Mrs. Klepzig spoke briefly of her experience of many years in the Salvation Army and of the pleasure it afforded her to be appointed together with her husband to take charge of such a fine corps as that of the Lowell Salvation Army. The adjutant spoke in an informal way and complimented Lowell on having such a good corps of the Salvation Army. He mentioned how proud he was to be selected to be in charge of this Salvation Army post. He paid a glowing tribute to the work of his predecessors, Adjutant and Mrs. Clark and the fine state he had found the local work in upon his arrival. The adjutant said that it was his intention to win himself a place of usefulness in the community. He spoke of his experience in many fields of Salvation Army work and his endeavor to preach the gospel of Jesus Christ to all who would listen. The meeting finished with an appeal to the unconverted. All day on Sunday the meetings both on the street and in the Salvation Army hall were marked with unusual large attendance. The adjutant and his four children were taken into the Sunday school on Sunday afternoon. During his address on Sunday night the adjutant thanked the people present for the fine welcome given them to the city and said already his family as well as himself felt at home among such a warm-hearted people. Many expressions of welcome have been voiced during the Sunday meetings at the Salvation Army hall. The adjutant is full of enthusiasm and of hope for the future of the Salvation Army in Lowell.

Two years ago I became acquainted with RED PILLS for pale and weak women. I started to take them as directed, and I owe my good health of today to their beneficial qualities. I have had eight children and four premature confinements. After the first years of married life, I became so weakened and in such poor health that I was unable to do my own work, as I had always done in the past. I went to see two doctors, followed their advice, but without results, my health was always the same. I then stopped taking their medicine and put myself solely under the influence of RED PILLS for pale and weak women; fifteen boxes did the work and restored me to good health, which is saying that I owe them more than I can ever repay. My little girl now takes RED PILLS and whenever needed, I will be sure to take them again also.

6% Preferred Stock	10,000,000	10,000,000

We call your attention to the following summary of a letter from Mr. H. S. Firestone, President of the Company:

BUSINESS:

The present Company is successor to a company of the same name founded in 1900. Its products consist of solid rubber tires and pneumatic tires and tubes for passenger cars and trucks, tire rims, steel bases for solid tires, and a miscellaneous line of rubber goods, including boots and shoes, bicycle and motorcycle tires, and tire accessories.

PURPOSE OF ISSUE:

The proceeds will be used for: Additional equipment to increase the output of plant No. 2; enlarging the output of cord tires in the main plant; constructing a new mechanical building and a new steel rim plant; additional working capital.

SECURITY:

The Company will maintain at all times Net Quick Assets equivalent to 125%, and total Net Tangible Assets equivalent to 200% of the aggregate par value of both classes of Preferred Stock then outstanding. If 25% or more of the holders of this stock object, the Company will not issue any debenture bonds maturing later than one year from their issue, or place any mortgage or other lien upon the assets of the Company, or permit any of its present or future subsidiary companies to do so or authorize any additional stock with rights equal or prior to the rights of the 7% Preferred Stock.

ASSETS:

The total Net Tangible Assets as of July 31, 1919, after giving effect to the present financing and after deducting the outstanding amount of 6% Preferred Stock, amount to over $48,000,000.

EARNINGS:

During the last 8 1/4 years the average annual net income after payment of dividends on the 6% Preferred Stock was $3,148,805, or over 4 1/4 times the dividend requirements on this issue. The annual average of the net earnings for the 3 1/4 years ended October 31, 1918, was $4,652,592, or over 6 1/2 times the dividend on this issue.

PREFERENCES:

This stock is entitled to 7% cumulative dividends after providing for the dividends and redemption charge on account of the 6% Preferred Stock. If called for redemption, or upon any distribution of the Company's assets, whether by dissolution, liquidation, merger or consolidation, this stock is entitled to 110 and accrued dividends after providing for the 6% Preferred stock at the same price.

SINKING FUND:

Beginning in 1921, not less than 10% of the net income after providing for dividends on and redemption of the 6% Preferred, and dividends on the 7% Preferred, shall be used for the redemption of this stock at 110, if not obtainable in the open market at a lower price.

All legal matters pertaining to this issue will be passed upon for us by Messrs. Shearman & Sterling, New York, and by Messrs. Miller, Gorham & Wales, Chicago, for the Company. The accounts have been audited by Messrs. Haskins & Sells, Certified Public Accountants.

We offer this stock for subscription, subject to allotment, if, as and when issued and received by us, and subject to approval of Counsel at

HIGH SCHOOL FOOTBALL

Big Squad Out For First Practice Session Held This Afternoon

Lowell high school's 1919 football season got under way with a rush this afternoon at Washington park with nearly 60 boys reporting to Head Coach Conway and his assistants. Donald McIntyre, freshmen athletic director, and William P. Boland, Holy Cross 1918, at present a chemistry teacher at the local school.

In several ways the 1919 season is a novel one and presents many perplexing questions. To begin with a football team will be put in the field as the result of long and earnest deliberation on the part of the school authorities as to the feasibility of maintaining this major sport as a part of the year's curriculum. It finally rested with the judgment of Coach Conway and he decided to go through with it. He was aided in his decision by an apparent healthy interest on the part of the boys themselves and a promise of generous support from the student body.

The coaches face a tough proposition inasmuch as the squad contains only one veteran player, Thomas W. O'Day, a senior, who played a guard position with Dan Coughlin on the 1917 team. One man is not much of a nucleus around which to build an eleven, but mindful of all the obstacles in the path, the coaches feel that satisfactory results will be obtained.

For the time being practice will be held daily at Washington park at 3 p. m. As in past years the home games will be played at Spaulding Park, the only available grounds. Although the season's schedule is not complete, a tentative one has been drawn up. It includes games with Manchester, Woburn, Haverhill and Lawrence high schools. The Lawrence game will be played in Lowell this year. When finally framed the schedule will call for eight or nine games and Mr. Conway expects to have it in shape for publication within a few days.

It was practically a green squad which faced the coaches at Washington park today, although there were a few men who showed up well during the spring practice sessions. Among them were: Fred Gleason, McEllin, Pat. Mullins, Trull, Linton, Cahill, Lyon, O'Hare, McWilliams, Chino, and Borash. When built the eleven will be fairly light in weight, but Coach Conway plans to more than offset this by an abundance of speed and football brains.

The National City Company buys $10,000,000 of Firestone Preferred Stock

Firestone production is increasing so rapidly under demand from our 42,000 dealers that this additional capital was required

Although the two great Firestone plants at Akron are turning out daily 22,000 tires and 25,000 tubes, the demand from passenger car owners and truck operators continues to outstrip production.

Additional equipment already ordered for Plant No. 2, which is devoted exclusively to the manufacture of 3 1-2 inch tires and tubes, will increase the output of this one manufacturing unit to 16,000 tires a day; while in the parent plant increased equipment for the manufacture of Cords is steadily building the output to its capacity of 20,000 tires daily, which will give a total capacity of 36,000 tires a day.

These equipment requirements and the need of a new steel plant that will double the output of Firestone Rims, are being met by an issue of $10,000,000 7% Preferred Stock, the entire amount being taken by The National City Company, the world's largest distributors of high grade securities.

On the financial page of this paper you will find an advertisement signed by The National City Company, which gives some interesting facts about the financial strength of the Firestone Company --- a strength that is founded on twenty years of sound business policy and is an index of the character of the Company's products.

The National City Company is in the business of buying and distributing through its many correspondent offices the securities of corporations that are so well managed, so conservatively financed and whose products fill such a public need, that they measure up to its exacting standards of what should constitute a prime investment.

It is a high tribute to the quality of Firestone products and to the great dealer organization through which they are distributed that the demand for them should so increase as to require this additional capital to meet it. And it is a tribute to the character of the Firestone institution that the distribution of this entire $10,000,000 Preferred Stock issue should be undertaken by The National City Company.

See that you get the values in mileage and service that are responsible for this demand for Firestone tires and this standing of the Company. BRITISH COMMENT ON BULLITT'S EVIDENCE

LONDON, Sept. 15.—With the exception of two or three anti-government newspapers, London journals give scant attention this morning to the evidence given by William C. Bullitt before the foreign relations committee of the United States senate.

The Daily News gives great prominence to the story and, in its editorial comments, accepts Mr. Bullitt's story as the true account of what happened at Paris and cites Premier Lloyd George's statement before the house of commons on April 16, when he virtually denied knowledge of Mr. Bullitt's mission to Russia. The Herald, the labor organization, gives similar prominence to the story and in its comment says:

"Mr. Bullitt's blunt facts will have a devastating effect," adding that if Premier Lloyd George cannot clear himself from the charges made by Mr. Bullitt, he must resign.

The Daily Mail prints the Bullitt evidence conspicuously but with the other newspapers makes no comment.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

Below is what the press agents of the different theatres say about the current attractions and of others to come:

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE

Of course you aren't going to hear Caruso and Melba and all the rest of the worthies at the B. F. Keith theatre this week, but you are going to hear a dozen or so of singers who, have very carefully studied the vocalism of the great artists and who are going to deliver over to you very decent replicas of their voices. During the first week of their engagement, the management will give triple votes away at the Saturday matinee. Think of it! Three for one. Keep plugging hard for your favorite. He or she may need just what you can give to win the coveted prize. The Strand Fashion Revue next week.

The week's bill will be notable for more reasons than one, however. George Yeoman, a remarkably funny man, will appear with his brand new sketch based on newspaper life and called "Editor of the Assassinated Press." With him is Lizzie—it matters not what her last name is. Lizzie is just as funny as George. He is the editor—she is the woman of the editorial rooms, who does everything almost that is required in such a place. What matter if her spelling is abominable, if she is sometimes more interested in her hatdressing than in getting her news correct. Lizzie is a scream. The whole act is above the average.

Eddie Heron, who used to be the "Hi Holler" in "Way Down East," will be seen in brand new farce called "The Traveling Salesman." Heron is one of the real low comedians of the stage. Not always was he in vaudeville. He began his career in "Peck's Bad Boy," later playing with such worthies as Otis Skinner, Arnold Daly, Claude Gillingwater and DeWolf Hopper. He is surrounded by a most competent lot of players.

Lou Miller, who used to travel with his brother Ed, has a feminine assistant now, and she is none other than Alice Bradford, who is very well known in vaudeville. Both are singers, and both know how to act. "All for a Song" is the name of their act, and it fits the case perfectly. There are no more attractive exponents of the wire than the Jordan Girls. These two comely young women do many difficult feats with great ease. The attractive Padula is a chile singer, who allures with her manner and costumes as much as with her voice. Frank and Ethel Carmen are a comedy team with novelty hoop rolling and baton exercises. The B. F. Keith News Weekly Topics of the Day and a Bruce Secale will make up the remainder of this very good bill.

OPERA HOUSE

"The Little Teacher," one of the most recent stage creations by Harry J. Smith, author of "The Tailor-Made Man" and other successes, will be the attraction for the coming week by the Lowell Players at the Opera House. This piece was originally produced by Coburn & Harris and at that time created no end of favorable comment from press and public alike. It was recognized as the best play since "The Music Master."

In securing it for local presentation Messrs. Buckley & Schaeke have made a ten-strike, for it was only after considerable difficulty and the expenditure of extra royalty that they succeeded in getting it. It's a most entertaining romance of New Hampshire hills and has a delightful sprinkling of humor, pathos and all other elements that go in the making of an acceptable play in the theatre. Director Kirk will endeavor to make it as artistic and finished as the original production as stagecraft will permit. Mr. Kirk has already demonstrated his unusual accomplishment as a director, and his assurance of a finished offering, should be sufficient to satisfy all that it will be a truly commendable one of the happy features of the play will be the introduction of Miss Margaret Fields and John Melham in entirely new roles, ones that will offer new fields of endeavor for them both. Miss Fields will appear as "the little teacher" and Mr. Melham as the big-hearted lumberman. The others of the cast will find themselves assigned to congenial roles, particularly Miss Knowles, Miss Freckles and Hal Crane.

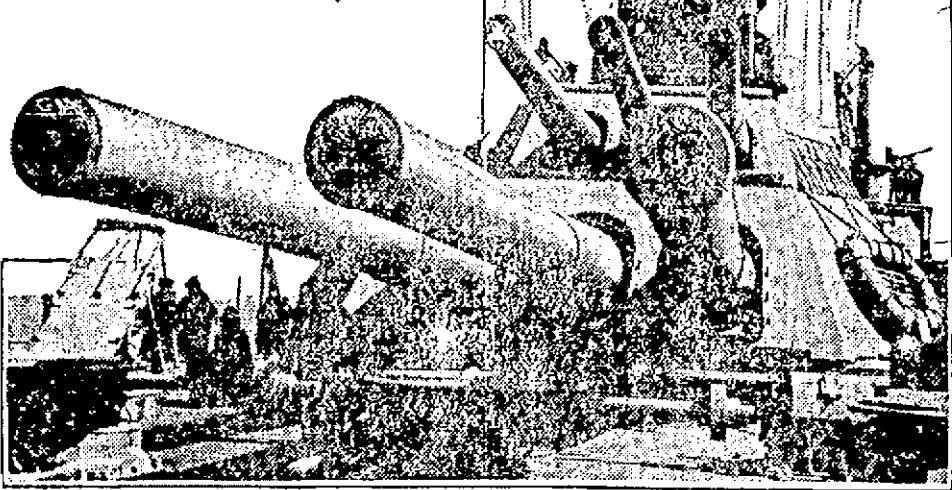

The sale of tickets for the week is large, indicating capacity audiences at all performances. It's advisable to make your reservations early and avoid possible disappointment. Better still have your name placed on the subscription list. It costs no more. Tel. 261.

THE STRAND

Tom Moore in "The City of Comrades," and Miss Corinne Griffiths in "The Bramble Bush," will be the chief picture attractions on The Strand program for the first three days of this week. Both are excellent pictures, and must be seen to be appreciated. The former is a dramatic effort, and the latter a fine comedy drama.

On next Saturday afternoon the pony contest will come to a close. At the matinee performance on that day all votes will be counted, the winner announced, and the award made from the stake. The handsome Rutland pony

When Secretary Daniels announced that San Francisco had become the "front door" of the United States he did not neglect to draw attention to these grim "bolts" which Uncle Sam can shoot home any time an invader threatens. There are now plenty of "bolts" on the Pacific coast to hold the "front door" against almost any odds.

with complete cowboy riding outfit, will be given absolutely free to the boy or girl having the largest number of votes. As an incentive the management will give triple votes away at the Saturday matinee. Think of it! Three for one. Keep plugging hard for your favorite. He or she may need just what you can give to win the coveted prize. The Strand Fashion Revue next week.

THE OWL THEATRE

Mary Pickford in "Daddy Long Legs," coming to the Owl theatre all next week, giving two performances daily, has certainly caught the country by storm, which only goes to prove that all the big things that had been said of her production were not in idle boast.

It is doubtful if ever a picture play has been better, or even as well liked as this one, and the dainty little star herself never had a better or more appealing role than that of the orphan, Judy Abbott, who as an infant is picked out of an ash can by a policeman.

Millions of admirers of Miss Pickford will agree when they have seen this picture that the favorite star never had a better or more appealing role than that of the orphan, Judy Abbott, who as an infant is picked out of an ash can by a policeman.

As a madcap child whose restless personality overcomes even the most sordid surroundings, as a girl tauntingly the good things which she so longed for in her childhood captivity, and at last a lover, coquettish, capricious, Miss Pickford's characterization is a masterpiece.

The Pickford beauty prize has awakened no end of curiosity among theatregoers of the city and much speculation is being waged as to which

RECRUITING CAMPAIGN HERE THIS WEEK

In accordance with orders received by Massachusetts State Guard officers on Saturday night, recruiting campaigns will be conducted by officers and men of the three Lowell companies of the 11th regiment in this city this week. Each company roll will be increased from 60 odd to 100 men. It is understood that enlistment is for the duration of the present emergency only.

Former service men are desired particularly, although any able-bodied man will be accepted. During the week, during 9 p. m. Co. C, Capt. Loring Kew commanding, will station a recruiting detail in charge of Lieut. A. H. Wilbur at the U. S. Cartridge Co. employment office in Market street. There will be vacancies in this company for seven corporals and four sergeants.

Men desiring to enlist in Co. G may see Lieut. George D. Crowell at the State armory. Enlistments in Co. H will be received at Westford, the company base.

The three Lowell companies on duty in Boston and also the Westford unit have been transferred from the outlying districts into the city proper and now are billeted at the armory in Irvington street.

B Company, under Capt. Bergeron, patrols East Dedham and Dover streets between 8 a. m. and 4 p. m. and are attached to Station 5. Company C, Capt. Loring Kew, patrols Lapanne street, back of the Hotel Touraine and over an area which extends to the South station between the hours of 8 a. m. and 4 p. m. G company, Capt. Royal P. White, has been assigned to Station 5 and covers East Dedham and Dover streets between 12 midnight and 8 a. m. Company H, Capt. Edward Fisher, patrols the same territory as Co. C, but between the hours of 12 midnight and 8 a. m.

Edward Fisher, formerly major of the 2nd battalion, who enlisted for the emergency as a private, Saturday received a commission as captain and put in command of H company of Westford, whose leader, Capt. C. W. Robinson, recently has resigned.

Lieut. Loring Kew Saturday was raised to a captaincy and placed in command of Co. C, while Second Lieut. W. W. Wildman advanced to a first lieutenant in the same company.

The Lowell men are in excellent condition and are cheerfully putting up with the few inconveniences of the strike.

Big Democratic Rally

Continued

Ham F. Connelly, candidate for state senator from Brookline, and Martin Hall, campaign speaker for Mr. Long, the speaking at city hall began at 8 o'clock when former Governor Foss opened activities and then it was a continuous performance until 10:30.

Mr. Long being the final speaker. Mr. Long spoke in detail on the failure of Governor Coolidge to carry out the reconstruction program he had outlined in his inaugural address and cited the complete absence of trolley service in the Berkshires for the past four weeks as an example of the governor's "reconstruction" measures.

He accused the governor of being controlled by corporations, and said that one lawyer who had collected thousands of dollars from the state for services in "reorganizing" the Bay State Street Railway Co. is now a member of the governor's railroad commission. He pleaded for a graduated income tax which would compel the wealthy residents of the state to pay a more proportionate share of the state's expenses. This money could be used for developing the water power of the state, developing its farms and giving the soldiers of the world war a year's soldier's pay in addition to the $100 bonus already granted. He would pay this $100 bonus from a graduated income tax and do away with the present law which provides for the assessment of a 50 cent poll tax.

Mr. Foss pleaded for public ownership of public service corporations on the ground that the public gave such corporations the right of franchise and therefore whatever profit is made should be returned to the public and not to high salaried officials. He predicted a five-cent fare if the trolley systems of the commonwealth were owned by the state. He said Lowell taxpayers may next year have to pay extra taxes to finance the Bay State road, just as the people of Boston and its suburbs this year must make up the deficit of the Boston Elevated road. Referring to his record as governor for three years, Mr. Foss emphasized the workmen's compensation act as one of the important pieces of legislation enacted during his term of office.

Mr. Monahan was the only speaker of the evening to refer to the strike of police in Boston, and he did not go into details on the matter. Police Commissioner Curtis he characterized as "the fear of Boston at $200 a year." He came out in favor of "better wages" for the workmen and made a great many charges of a most sweeping character, but the other candidates did not seem to take him seriously.

Ex-Congressman Joseph Conroy of Boston was among the speakers in the Long battery. He also spoke in his own behalf as candidate for attorney general on the democratic ticket. He is an eloquent and impressive speaker, reminding one in style and personality of the late John C. Burke. His address was by all odds the best of the evening.

At Towens corner as at city hall, a large crowd was assembled at 8 o'clock expecting the speakers.

Mr. Conroy was the first to appear and he was listened to very attentively. Mr. Monahan followed in a trade of vituperation and charges against the other candidates. He spoke later at city hall, following Mr. Foss.

Long's Address

Richard H. Long, candidate for governor, then appeared and was cordially received.

He said that inasmuch as Gov. Coolidge had been in office eight months and had had the legislature in session seven months, he felt he had a right to criticize his actions. This year he wished to base his platform on the business problem confronting the state. He did not criticize the governor last year, he said, as he believed it would be unfair to condemn him until he had an opportunity to hold the position of governor.

"The friends and supporters of Gov. Coolidge have received $511,000 as a result of their work in connection with the receivership of the Bay State Street railway," he said. One of the members of a Boston law firm received $63,000 and this same man is now appointed on a committee to decide what to do with the street railways. Had I been governor I should have demanded that the work be done by the office of the attorney general without expense to riders on street cars. The corporations that are supporting Gov. Coolidge and who approve his administration own the legislature as far as public service is concerned.

"Gov. Coolidge mentioned in his inaugural address a 'reconstruction program.' One of the results of this 'reconstruction' is the absence of trolley service in the Berkshires for the past four weeks.

"I called up the telephone office in my home town, Framingham, the other day, and asked what their receipts were for the past year. They wouldn't tell me. I went to the Boston office. They wouldn't tell me there. Why should they? They do not make any report.

"The Metropolitan water and sewer commission have built two large reservoirs on the Sudbury river. But the contracts were let out privately, not advertised as they should have been. As governor I will give the state a business administration and not allow the financial interests to plunder the public. I shall recommend a graduated income tax to require the rich to pay their share of taxes. Under that policy the man who owns a house valued at $5000 would have to pay ten times as much taxes as the man who owns that amount of stocks and bonds.

"I favor a general street railway law with a five-cent fare for all lines in the commonwealth, taking over the street railways at their real value and in that case, they can give us a five-cent fare. I stand for giving every soldier, sailor and marine a year's pay of $500 in addition to the $100 bonus. The funds can be provided by the graduated income tax without placing any unreasonable burden on the people. With a graduated income tax our water power could be developed and given to farmers so as to increase the food supply.

"I wouldn't keep the legislature in session seven months to do this, either. I'll give the state a business administration and save the taxpayers many millions of dollars that are annually going into the pockets of our bankers."

Mr. Long was asked what his position on the Irish question was and he replied that he had always been in favor of Irish freedom. He said also that if he had lived in Ireland where his parents were born he could never have attained anything like the position he holds today. He is grateful for the opportunities he has enjoyed in this commonwealth and he is anxious to do something for the state in return, as he finds the old commonwealth under republican rule is slipping back behind Ohio and other states.

Former Governor Foss

Shortly after 7:30 a cornetist mounted city hall steps and at brief intervals sent the notes of popular songs trilling their way through the rapidly assembling crowd. In the meantime, Mr. Foss had a corps of lieutenants distributing his campaign cards and circulars and the former governor also held many personal chats with the voters. Promptly at 8 o'clock, without introduction, he started speaking and had a large audience. He opened his speech by an attack on the public service enterprises of the state.

"The people of the commonwealth have granted franchises to public service corporations," he said, "so that whatever is accomplished by such corporations may be of service to them. It isn't right that there should be a dollar of profit in such enterprises. Anything over and above actual maintenance costs should go for repairs and for the benefit of all the people, not a few stockholders. It has been argued that public ownership would lose all efficiency. That argument is fallacious. Several cities in the United States own their street railways and today in one of them the people enjoy a three-cent fare. In others the five-cent fare is in vogue. The roads are paying their employees higher wages than under private ownership and are giving better service. This service is drawing trade from the suburban towns.

"Public ownership would eliminate the high salaries that are now in vogue. We wouldn't be paying the president of the Boston Elevated $35,000 a year. It is said that the man who manages a street railway must be a man of large initiative. This may be true of the managers of your industries here in Lowell where there is a lot of competition, but when an enterprise is publicly owned and there is no competition an ordinary, hard-headed business man can fill the job.

"They say that private ownership keeps the railways out of politics. I want to tell you that the Boston Elevated has maintained a lobby on Beacon Hill, a most powerful lobby.

"I know because I've been there. The chief lobbyist of the Elevated road got $15,000 a year. Public ownership would stop that. One Boston law firm would reap that $15,000 as a personal fee from the Elevated company. If this road were owned by Boston it would have a five-cent fare.

"Take your own Bay State road here in Lowell. Three months ago it was put on the market and bought by the same bankers who originally owned it. It had run down so the people were called upon to finance its reorganization. One Boston law firm received $100,000 as a personal fee from the Elevated company. If this road were owned by Boston it would have a five-cent fare.

to his record at the state house while he had had the legislature in session seven months, he felt he had a right to criticize his actions. This year he wished to base his platform on the business problem confronting the state. He did not criticize the governor last year, he said, as he believed it would be unfair to condemn him until he had an opportunity to hold the position of governor.

"The friends and supporters of Gov. Coolidge have received $511,000 as a result of their work in connection with the receivership of the Bay State Street railway," he said. One of the members of a Boston law firm received $63,000 and this same man is now appointed on a committee to decide what to do with the street railways. Had I been governor I should have demanded that the work be done by the office of the attorney general without expense to riders on street cars. The corporations that are supporting Gov. Coolidge and who approve his administration own the legislature as far as public service is concerned.

HOME WELCOME TO SERVICE MEN

Wide co-operation and gratifying financial and moral support is being accorded the plans for the welcome home celebration to be given to service men by the folks of the South End in October. Another enthusiastic meeting of interested men was held yesterday afternoon in St. Peter's school hall, at which time several matters of importance were discussed.

In answer to constant questions as to extent of city territory embraced by the South End, the committee in charge have ruled that the district for this celebration is most elastic and comprises all land between Tower's Corner, as the eastern boundary, all of Belvidere and the Highlands as far as the Middlesex street car barns, Chelmsford street to Lincoln square and the Lawrence street "grove" section.

Yesterday's meeting brought out the fact that more than $300 already has been received in voluntary contributions and that the committee will appeal to merchants and citizens to further aid the plans by substantial subscriptions. Chairman Daniel Cosgrove presided and the secretary's report was read by James L. O'Dea. Committees reported progress and a delegation from the Y.M.C.A. promised the support of money and its membership.

The parade in connection with the celebration will be the crowning feature and will be held on Columbus day. It will embrace every conceivable feature and it is confidently expected that several thousand persons will be in line.

A dance to provide additional funds will be conducted early in October at Associate hall and other events will be held to arouse interest in the celebration. The women of the South End section will hold a mass meeting on Thursday evening of this week, at 8 o'clock, at St. Peter's school hall, and they will be asked to aid the plans in any manner they desire. It is the idea of the committee in charge to enlist the interest of every man and woman in the section as they feel that only in this way will success be assured.

The next meeting of the committee will be held on Thursday night.

HENRY CLOUTIER.

THE HEIRS OF THE JOHN NESMITH ESTATE, OWNERS OF THE TWO STORY FOUR APARTMENT HOUSE AT NOS. 63-65 WILLOW STREET—BELVIDERE, HAVE DECIDED TO MAKE SALE OF THIS PARCEL, AND HAVE THEREFORE INSTRUCTED THE AUCTIONEER TO SELL AT UNRESTRICTED PUBLIC SALE TO THE HIGHEST BONA FIDE BIDDERS UPON THE PREMISES ON FRIDAY THE NINETEENTH DAY OF SEPTEMBER, 1919, AT 4 O'CLOCK IN THE AFTERNOON, REGARDLESS OF ANY CONDITION OF THE WEATHER.

The property comprises a block of four tenements, of four and five rooms to each, separate toilets, gas, sewer, city water, etc. There are two apartments on the first floor, each have five rooms, toilet, shed and cellar. On the second story are two flats of four rooms, toilets, and sheds for wood and coal to reach. The building is equipped with two front doors, and two side entrances for the common use of all tenants.

The house is fully rented to four desirable tenants, one of whom has occupied the same premises for the past 12 years—and others from three to five years. The present rental of the tenements are, two at $11 each per month, and two at $12 each per month—making a total of $46 per month—or $552 per year, which is an exceedingly low rental for flats of this description and especially flats in this splendid section of Belvidere.

The lot has a frontage on Willow street of about 72 feet and a total area of about 2415 square feet; practically 50 per cent. of this area, in the rear of the building is undeveloped, and owing to its dimensions, one could very easily add to the present structure, or erect a two, four or six apartment block and in no way disturb the present building, and with homes and tenements so scarce, and with the demands for them daily increasing, one could be absolutely assured of an immediate rental, and an income that would pay a very large revenue on the total investment. This sale is of unusual importance.

First: Its location, IN BELVIDERE, within eight minutes of easy and actual walking distance from Merrimack Square, in a splendid wide street within a minute's actual walk of the electric cars, within close proximity to churches of different denominations.

Secondly: The building as an investment property having four tenements which can be made to yield a great revenue, also with the opportunity to erect additional apartments in the rear.

Terms: $500 must be paid to the auctioneer as soon as the property is struck off. Other terms at sale.

J. A. NESMITH, for the Heirs.

AT No. 73 LAWRENCE ST., LOWELL

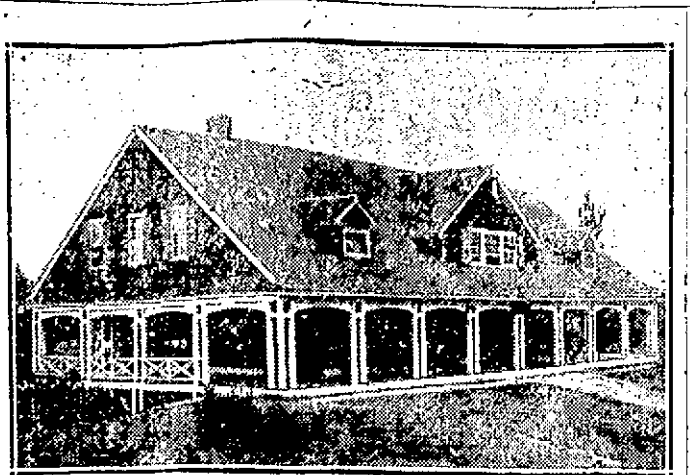

THIS FULL 2 1/2 STORY DWELLING AND ABOUT 3653 SQUARE FEET OF LAND PLEDGED TO THE HIGHEST BONA FIDE BIDDERS AT UNRESTRICTED PUBLIC SALE ON SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 20, 1919, AT 3 O'CLOCK P. M.

On the premises premises of any condition of the weather we will sell to whomsoever will bid the most this well situated parcel of real estate. The premises consist of a full 2 1/2 story dwelling containing twenty-one rooms, also bath room and hot and cold water, furnace heat, gas, city water and sewer connections. There are ten rooms on the first floor and on the second floor are eleven rooms and bath room, the building is in very fair repair, only recently considerable money was expended in painting, etc. The premises have long since been occupied as a lodging house and with its trade arrangements can be continued successfully as a business property; this is also especially true owing to its location, the property being within eight minutes' walking distance of the very centre of Lowell, Merrimack Square, also within three or four minutes of the Postoffice; also within comfortable walking distance of the largest of Lowell's Manufacturing Plants.

The house could, if one so desired, and with a comparatively small cost owing to the present plan, be converted into a two or more apartment property and the owner could be absolutely assured of an immediate rental. This sale has many advantages and should strongly appeal to all parties interested in real estate, both for the home-seeker and investor alike.

Terms: $150 must be paid to the auctioneer just as soon as the property is struck off. Other terms at sale.

CHARLES JOHNSON.

GENOA CLUBHOUSE BURNED YESTERDAY

GENOA CLUB BURNED

Summer Home of Knights of Columbus in Tyngsboro Destroyed by Fire

Lowell council of the Knights of Columbus sustained a most disheartening loss early yesterday morning when the beautiful and well appointed Genoa club in Tyngsboro, the summer home of members of the council and scene of hundreds of happy affairs in the past dozen years, was burned to the ground at a loss of $6000. The origin of the fire was unknown.

The building was a two-story wooden affair and had been erected about 15 years. A broad veranda surrounded it on all sides. The lower floor was used for dancing, banquets, etc., and the upper floor as rest rooms for the members. The last big affair staged there was the annual outing of the board of trade held a week ago Thursday.

The club house was situated on the crest of a slope which ran down to a broad athletic field. Abundant foliage surrounded it on all sides but luckily the fire was prevented from spreading beyond the immediate confines of the building. Campers who passed the scene at midnight Saturday report that there was no trace of fire then. A little later it was discovered completely enveloped in flames. Officers of the council are at a loss to explain how the fire started. The floors were of hard wood and not likely to offer very inflammable material to a smoldering cigar or cigarette. There was no refusal about the building in which rats might start the fire.

The building is very near the car tracks of the Lowell-Nashua line and many people visited the scene yesterday. The structure was burned to the ground, only the brickwork of the fireplace being left standing.

A cottage near the clubhouse, also owned by the Knights of Columbus and sold to date back to the Revolutionary period, was not harmed by the fire. There are a large number of camps in that section of Tyngsboro but none in the immediate vicinity of the Genoa club.

Residents of the entire neighborhood were summoned as soon as the flames were discovered but they had to confine themselves to preventing the flames from spreading to nearby property. The building was too far gone when the fire was discovered to be saved. Only a light breeze was blowing and this helped to keep the flames concentrated on the clubhouse.

The building was erected about 15 years ago by Connors Bros., formerly of this city but now of New York. It was built the same year that the Nashua postoffice was erected. The loss is covered by insurance to the extent of $4000.

"To the substance of some of the proposed reservations," his report declared, "there can be no serious objection. But against the manner in which they are asserted, I do most earnestly protest. They are couched in a defiant, discourteous and overbearing manner, and seem intended to express a jingoistic spirit that ought to be eliminated from American citizenship."

and simple and designed to take the United States entirely out of the league."

Special opposition was expressed to the proposed amendment to the Shantung provision. By this amendment, to said, Japan would be "kicked out" of the league by the United States and Shantung possibly lost to China.

Calling attention to what he termed the failure of the committee majority to explain the purposes of the league, he said: "Not one word is said, not a single allusion made concerning either the great purpose of the League of Nations or the methods by which those purposes are to be accomplished."

Senator McCumber said that the amendment to give the United States equal votes in the league with Great Britain was unnecessary. The plan of giving each member nation one vote without regard to size or importance, was the only possible plan, he argued, since to all intents and purposes the British colonies were independent.

His Only Objection

He said his only objection to the Lodge reservation on withdrawal from the league was of form. As to the Lodge reservation to Article 10, he had many objections.

"First, it is an amendment pure and simple," he said, "of the most important article in the league. Its purpose is to take the United States as a power for the peace of the world out of the league entirely."

"Second, it places this country in a false and wrong position in an attitude of encouraging powerful countries to injure or impose any wrong upon weaker nations by our declared policy of non-intervention."

With his report Senator McCumber submitted the six reservations to champions as substitutes for the committee reservations. These recently were made public.

Sen. McCumber, Republican, Denounces Report of Majority Amendments

Would Reject Proposed Amendments and Modify Strong Reservations

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—Rejection of all proposed amendments to the German peace treaty and modification of the recommended "strong" reservations was urged in an individual minority report filed with the senate today, by Senator McCumber, republican, of North Dakota, next in rank on the foreign relations committee to Chairman Lodge. Senator McCumber voted with the democrats on amendments and several reservations.

Senator McCumber denounced most of the majority amendments as "retrograde" and "un-American."

FEDERAL INCOME TAX COLLECTORS

Federal income tax collectors were at their office in the post office building today to receive the last payment on the third installment of the income tax. Efforts also were made to collect the fourth and last installment at this time and in many cases this was done.

There was no rush of people to get the third installment paid although there was a steady coming and going between the hours of 9 a. m. and 5 o'clock this afternoon. This is the last day of grace for this installment, but persons who neglected to visit the collectors may escape the penalty of tardiness if their check is sent to Boston tonight, addressed to John F. Malley, collector. In other words, the post mark date of Sept. 15 is the only loophole if one has neglected this sacred duty.

The collectors stated this morning that the last day for the payment of the fourth and last installment of the tax levy falls on Dec. 15. Soda tax collectors are working about the city, but storekeepers who fall subject to this tax may save the collectors considerable chasing around if they will call at the tax office any morning between 11 and 12 o'clock and voluntarily pay this tax.

Sen. Lodge Presents Copy of Treaty With Austria—Sen. Jones Speaks

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—Consideration of the German peace treaty began this afternoon in the senate. It was called up by Chairman Lodge of the foreign relations committee and became the first great document of its kind to be discussed in the senate in the full light of publicity.

After having the senate adopt a motion without objection to proceed to consider the German treaty, Senator Lodge presented a copy of the treaty with Austria, which he said he had received from the Chicago Tribune and which President Wilson refused recently to transmit to the senate.

Senator Lodge made no preliminary statement and Senator Jones, democrat, of New Mexico proceeded to deliver a prepared address on the League of Nations. Little over half of the senate membership was present.

BIG BUILDING PROJECT

Local Corporation Plans to Build $1,000,000 Mill and Storehouse

The Bay State Cotton Corporation this morning took out a permit from the office of the buildings department at city hall for the erection of the first unit of what eventually is to be a million dollar project at the junction of Broadway and Pawtucket streets.

The permit issued today was for a seven-story, storehouse of reinforced concrete construction. Later on a permit will be taken out by the corporation for the erection of a four-story mill for manufacturing purposes. The latter building will be 143 by 394 feet.

The storehouse is designed by Lockwood, Green and Co., architects of Boston, and is to be built by the Abernethy Construction Co., also of Boston. The building will have solid walls with reinforced concrete frames and the roof will be flat with tar and gravel covering. It will be equipped with sprinklers and outside fire protection and will be heated by steam. One of the features of the proposed structure will be the building of a tunnel leading from the old plant of the company in Marginal street, under a series of railroad tracks and into the new storehouse and mill.

RUNNING SCHEDULE CHANGED

The running time of cars for Lawrence, Haverhill, Nashua and Pelham on the Northeastern Street railway has been changed from half hourly time. The cars beginning today will leave Merrimack Square at 45 minutes past the hour.

On the Lowell-Ayer route, via North Chelmsford, the running time has also been changed from half hourly to hourly time, the cars leaving the square at 45 minutes past the hour.

BIG DEMOCRATIC RALLIES HERE

Each Explained His Platform—Hon. Jos. Conry and Hon. Ed Barry Also Heard

Lowell became the storm center of the state political campaign Saturday evening when a large number of candidates for the higher state offices, including three democratic candidates for governor, addressed voters at city hall, Tower's corner and Bridge and Paige streets. There were large crowds at each forum and no less than several thousand people assembled in front of city hall. The evening was ideal for outdoor speaking and as it was the first occasion in this year's primary fight that Lowell voters had heard the leading candidates there was plenty of interest manifested.

Richard H. Long, Eugene N. Foss and George P. Monahan, all democratic aspirants for gubernatorial honors, each made known emphatically the issues upon which he stands. Other speakers were ex-Congressman Joseph A. Conry, democratic candidate for attorney general; Edward P. Barry, former lieutenant governor; Lieut. Wil-

Deputy Chief of Italian Army Has Broad Powers to Meet Situation

PARIS, Sept. 15 (Havas).—General Badoglio, deputy chief of the Italian army, who has been given broad powers to meet the situation which has arisen in Fiume, incident to the entry of the city by Captain Gabriele d'Annunzio at the head of a large force of irregular troops, has arrived at Fiume, accompanied by General Aureli, according to advices received here.

Marching on Fiume

ROME, Sept. 15.—Reinforcements for Captain d'Annunzio's forces are said to be marching on Fiume. General Ferrar, commanding the Italian troops on the armistice line, has been ordered to prevent the forces from joining Captain d'Annunzio. d'Annunzio led forces estimated to number from 2,300 to 12,000 men into Fiume last week.

RESERVE MILITARY FORCE FOR CITY

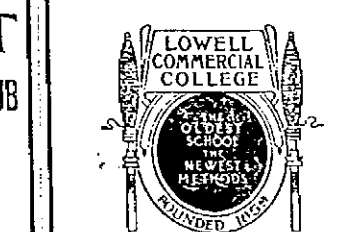

A meeting to interest Lowell service men in the formation of a reserve military force for this city and to recruit the former local companies of the Old Sixth Regiment to peace strength, will be held tonight at the Community Service club in Dutton street.

During this week opportunity will be afforded to register at the armory. There are no obligations included other than to signify an intention of serving the state only in an extreme emergency and then only after all other available protective means have been exhausted. Major Colby T. Kittredge will be in charge of recruiting and will have a staff of men to assist him. Service men will be given the preference of enlisting, but civilians, physically fit also will be accepted.

MAN KILLED IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Auto and Motorcycle Clash on Boulevard—Nashua Man Dead

Lowell Man Seriously Injured—Boston Auto Salesman Slightly Injured

One man was killed and two injured in an automobile accident on the Pawtucket boulevard at 11 o'clock this morning at a point near the entrance to the bridge of the Vesper-Country club. A man identified as G. Maynard of Nashua, N. H., died shortly after the accident before he could be brought to the Lowell General hospital. The injured men gave their names as Ernest Genest of this city and Carl Whitten of Boston. Genest is seriously injured but Whitten is expected to leave the hospital before evening.

Whitten is a salesman for the Standard Motor Car Co. of Boston and was traveling by auto from Manchester, N. H., to Boston when the accident occurred. He left Manchester at 5.45 and reached the scene of the accident about 11 o'clock. When he reached the entrance of the Vesper-Country club bridge he saw an automobile rapidly approaching from the opposite direction and just beyond the machine a motorcycle with side car, also approaching at a high rate of speed.

Whitten immediately drew to the extreme right of the boulevard. The motorcycle, it is reported, went between the two machines going in opposite directions, and in so doing collided with Whitten's machine on the left front. The front axle was badly bent, the steering gear twisted and several other injuries caused.

The man in the sidecar of the motorcycle, who later proved to be Maynard, was thrown into Whitten's car and the impact proved serious enough to result in his death. Whitten was slightly injured but for a time was unconscious. Genest, the driver of the motorcycle, was seriously injured, his left hip being fractured. The sidecar of the motorcycle was demolished.

The three men were removed to the Lowell General hospital, but Maynard died before reaching there. Whitten and Genest were unconscious when they reached the hospital, but later recovered. Genest was so confused that he could not tell a very straightforward story but said he lived in Lowell. The address he gave proved non-existent. Whitten will be able to return to Boston this evening.

Medical Examiner T. B. Smith investigated the case but at the time of going to press had not issued an official report. Maynard's body was removed to the rooms of Undertakers Amelia Archambault & Sons.

Orders Troops to Strike Zone

RALEIGH, N. C., Sept. 15.—On request of the mayor of Albemarle, Governor Beckett today ordered national guardsmen to proceed there where a strike of textile workers has been in progress several weeks. An attempt to release rioters arrested during disturbances last night was feared.

17 Enemy Alien Prisoners Escape

SALT LAKE CITY, Sept. 15.—Seventeen enemy alien prisoners escaped from the war prison barracks at Fort Douglas near here early today. Escape was made through a tunnel which extended for eighty feet beyond the wire enclosure of the compound and was dug six feet below the surface.

According to Col. George L. Byram, commandant at the war prison, nearly all of the escaped prisoners had been interned because they were classed as "undesirable."

Riot Guns and Ammunition for Boston

MONTPELIER, Vt., Sept. 15.—Four hundred riot guns and 20,000 rounds of ammunition were sent to Boston by Vermont authorities today. The shipment was in compliance with a request from Massachusetts officials and was understood to be for use in the event of further disturbances in connection with the police strike.

MUNITION CONCERN COMING HERE

The board of trade announced today that plans had been practically perfected for the occupancy of several floors of the Burgess-Lang building in Middlesex street, which were vacated several months ago by the Snow Shoe company. The new tenant will be a well known munition concern which may in time take over the entire building. This concern originally intended to occupy the plant of the Newton Mfg. Co., but owing to difficulty in securing the desired arrangements changed to the Middlesex street building. Machinery will be installed at once and the details of employment announced by the company at a later date.

Strikers Open Fight to Regain Places—Union Heads and Curtis Meet

Danger of General Strike Appears Removed—Number of Guards Reduced

Riot Sticks Replace Rifles—Coolidge Refuses Gompers' Demand to Oust Curtis

BOSTON, Sept. 15.—Reconstruction of the Boston police department, excluding patrolmen discharged for union affiliation or for participation in the strike, was begun by Police Commissioner Edwin U. Curtis today. The first group of new men reported at police headquarters and were placed under instruction. The 20 men composing this detachment are war veterans and a large majority of an additional allotment of 129 named by the civil service commission are former service men.

Normal Force in So. Boston

By the use of Metropolitan Park policemen in the places of strikers, division No. 5 in South Boston district was restored to a normal police routine today, the first section of the department to reach that condition. State troops, however, will continue to assist in patrolling this district, where this morning guards were stoned, and fired several shots.

It was understood that an effort was made by the labor men to find some ground on which the commissioner might see his way clear to recede from his stand that the men either were discharged or had vacated their positions. The policemen's union still insists that recognition of affiliation with the American Federation of Labor be a condition to the return of its members on a permanent basis, although the men have voted to follow the suggestion of President Gompers that if taken back pending the result of President Wilson's conference with labor leaders on October 6, they will not pass the matter of union recognition.

Discusses General Strike

The question of a general strike declaration was discussed again in Central Labor Union circles, but without probability of a decision for several days.

The strikers' union will meet tonight to consider their action; the telephone workers will vote tomorrow night, and the electrical workers have called a meeting for Wednesday night. An official of the strikers' union, discussing a public statement by P. A. Kearns, trustee of the Consumptives' hospital that 55 per cent of the strikers had voted to strike, said no action had been taken as yet.

To Meet New Strikes

Arrangements to meet a general strike have been made, it was authoritatively stated today. Officials have drawn up a chart of the public services likely to be affected by a strike and have available for each man who is qualified to maintain the service.

Men who served with the engineers overseas comprise most of those who would be sent in to take the places of striking firemen and electrical workers, and it was said that men available for other branches of public service in each case were such that the emergency men would bring to the work sufficient knowledge to enable them to act promptly.

Efforts to Regain Places

Union labor's further measures to aid the striking policemen to obtain recognition as a union and reinstatement as police officers were uncertain today.

Commissioner Curtis conferred for half an hour this noon with labor representatives, including Guy Oyster, secretary to President Samuel Gompers, of the American Federation of Labor.

FARE COLLECTIONS ON NEW ZONE LINES

The pay as you leave system of fare collection on the local street railway will again become operative to some extent when the new fare system becomes effective Sept. 25. Passengers boarding an outward bound car from Merrimack square on any point inside the new "city zone" limits will pay as they leave the car; passengers boarding an inward bound car from any point—that is, a car going to Merrimack square—will pay when entering the car, as at present. Fare collections outside of the city zone will be taken by the Rooker hand register, the present method.

The newly established city zone, as stated in this paper last week, in which tickets sold 15 for $1 will be accepted, is as follows:

Gorham street line to Edison cemetery; Lawrence street to junction of Webster street; High street, entire route; Oakland line, entire route; Reading route, to Butman road; Lawrence route, to Clark road; Andrews route, to point 1000 feet beyond city line; Christian Hill, entire route; Dracut Centre, to end of double track; Hovey square, entire route; Lakeview avenue, to Pleasant street; Moody street, entire route; Pawtucketville, entire route; Varnum avenue, as far as Magnolia street; Middlesex street far as Pawtucket street; Westford street, entire route; Highlands, entire route; Chelmsford Centre, to the city farm.

These tickets may be purchased at 20 different places in the city, which will be announced in the newspapers by the board of trade as soon as the board has selected the different stations. Posters, explaining the details of the new system were placed on the cars and in store windows today.

THE MAKING OF A FAMOUS MEDICINE

How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Is Prepared For Woman's Use.

A visit to the laboratory where this successful remedy is made impresses even the casual looker-on with the reliability, accuracy, skill and cleanliness which attends the making of this great medicine for woman's ills.

Over 350,000 pounds of various herbs are used annually and all have to be gathered at the season of the year when their natural juices and medicinal substances are at their best.

The most successful solvents are used to extract the medicinal properties from these herbs.

Every utensil and tank that comes in contact with the medicine is sterilized and as a final precaution in cleanliness the medicine is pasteurized and sealed in sterile bottles.

It is the wonderful combination of roots and herbs, together with the skill and care used in its preparation which has made this famous medicine so successful in the treatment of female ills.

The letters from women who have been restored to health by the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound which we are continually publishing attest to its virtue.

PREACHED SERMON ON POLICEMEN'S STRIKE

Rev. A. R. Hussey preached to his congregation at All Souls church yesterday morning on a text brought to his mind by the strike of policemen in Boston. His topic was "The Handwriting on the Wall" and the sermon was a splendid appeal for adherence to the doctrines of democracy and decent society.

In part he said: "During the past week, through one of the oldest cities in the land, in one of the acknowledged centres of our national civilization, anarchy has stalked red-handed. Under the very walls of the Massachusetts State House, within sight of the Cradle of Liberty, crime suddenly broke loose. Theft, violence, murder even, became the order of the day. There are machine guns in Scollay Square, Fenway Hall has been made a barracks. The streets, patrolled by armed soldiers, have been stained with human blood. In short, there is war instead of peace. For a night and a day the forces of evil gained supremacy and were only suppressed by the strong hand of military control. The most disgraceful element in the whole situation was this: The disaster was the result, not of an attack by foreign enemies, but of the defection of our own flesh and blood. The city's worst foes have been members of its own household. The recent disturbances have been brought about because the city's sworn defenders put self-interest above the public welfare. They broke their pledged duty. They ignored their sworn duty for the sake of their personal desires. Like soldiers deserting in the face of the enemy, a majority of those comprising the Boston police force so far forgot their duty to the public whom they elected to serve, that they refused to work when the connection they had formed with the American Federation of Labor was forbidden by their superior officers. Denied permission to affiliate themselves to give up their jobs and walk out, rather than sacrifice themselves for honor and the public welfare.

"The action of these men deserves our undivided condemnation. To speak of it too severely is impossible. It is true that labor, no less than capital, has a right to organize for the furtherance of its own interests, the protection of its own inherent rights. But policemen are different from other laborers. They are public servants. Like the soldiers, they stand between the public and its enemies. They are on guard to suppress the lawless element in the community, leaving its inhabitants free to go about their peaceful occupations. They, moreover, are men under authority, and it is impossible for them to serve two masters.

"The most important fact about the strike of the Boston police is that it does not stand alone. It is the direct consequence of social sinning. It is a symptom of a dangerous disease now afflicting the body politics, a disease which, if suffered much longer to continue its ravages, can end only in death and dissolution. These men and their action are the products of that spirit of lawlessness which constitutes one of the worst perils now threatening American civilization, than which today no menace to our liberties is more formidable.

"The fact is, we, the people of this country, have as a rule taken our patriotism lightly and inadvisably. Carelessly and good-naturedly we have taken our citizenship for granted, with little serious understanding of the obligations it carried with it. "What the country needs, what Massachusetts needs, what the community needs, is an increasing number of people, high souled, unselfish, brotherly, who are resolved to stand no nonsense from labor, from capital, or any other party whose existence in any way threatens the sanctity and unity of our national institutions, and what they stand for."

Labor, Frank H. McCarthy, New England organizer of the A. F. of L., and John F. McManis, president of the policemen's union. The conferees declined to discuss what occurred at the meeting.

Report No General Strike

From New York, where President Gompers has been directing the federated interests in the Boston situation, came word from one of his associates that there would be no general strike. Officers of the Central union here, however, said they knew of no decision to warrant such a statement that the proposal for a general strike was still before the union and that a decision would come with the completion of a poll of the several craft organizations. This poll is being taken secretly. It is not complete, several of the principal unions having yet to declare themselves. It is known that some of them voted to take sympathetic action; that others frowned upon it, and that more cautious unions postponed action until they saw how sentiment lay.

Report Fight a Long One

The Central Labor union adjourned last night without calling a meeting in advance of its regular session next Sunday. This was accepted as an indication that union leaders regarded the fight as a long one. In which they will take action only after mature consideration. Such consideration, it is understood, will include the advice of President Gompers and other leaders of the federation, who regard the fight in this city as centering the national question of police unions which were approved by the A. F. of L. at its last convention.

Suggests Recourse to Courts

Gov. Coolidge, refusing President Gompers' demand for the removal of Police Commissioner Curtis suggested that the police had recourse to the courts, if they felt their rights had been invaded by the commissioner's action in discharging the union leaders and declaring vacant the places of the men who left their posts. It is known that counsel for the policemen's union had considered and dismissed for the time being, the matter of calling upon the courts.

conditions has been followed by removal of many of the barricades placed over store fronts after the looting in the early days of the strike. The number of state guardsmen on patrol was lessened today, but the troops still are in the city, concentrated at centers for availability as emergency reserves. In some sections bayoneted rifles were displaced by riot sticks to reduce the possibilities of serious consequences in minor collisions between citizens and guards.

Troops to Stay for Some Time

Preparations of the federal authorities to send federal troops into the city stood as an emergency precaution, but it was said that unless there were a general strike, there was no likelihood of their being called upon. The state troops, however, are likely to be on duty for some time as Commissioner Curtis said he could not hope to build up a new police force

Patrolmen Appointed

The development of the new police force with the regulars who remained on duty as a nucleus began today with the appointment of 20 patrolmen. The appointees, all war veterans and all certified by the civil service commission as having passed its examinations, reported for instruction, and it was said at police headquarters that they probably would be placed on patrol within a day or two.

The building up of the new force will not be hurried, according to James H. Devlin, Jr., counsel to the police commissioner. The reorganization will proceed, he said, in conformity with the civil service laws with the point in mind especially that the new men would be safeguarded in their places. Hasty action, he explained, might lead to technical errors in procedure which would make the status of the individuals and of the new body insecure.

130 Names Submitted

The civil service commission sent to Commissioner Curtis today a list of 132 names of men who have fulfilled its requirements. Of these men, 122 were veterans. The commission has on file applications from several hundred additional men who have not been called up for examination. These examinations will be held as soon as possible, it was said at the state house this morning.

1000 Places to Be Filled

Commissioner Curtis will have approximately 1000 places to fill. When the list of applicants qualified by the civil service is exhausted, the commissioner, by ruling of the attorney general, is authorized to complete his force by provisional appointment of any ex-service men who are residents of the state.

The South Boston district, previously the scene of serious rioting, was disturbed again this morning when, after state guardsmen were stoned from a rooftop, the soldiers fired several shots into the air. Investigation failed to disclose the persons responsible.

COOLIDGE'S REPLY

TO GOMPERS

BOSTON, Sept. 15.—Gov. Coolidge yesterday sent the following telegram in reply to the one received by him from Samuel Gompers:

Boston, Mass., Sept. 14, 1919.

Mr. Samuel Gompers, President Ameri-

can Federation of Labor, New York City.

Replying to your telegram: I have already refused to remove the police commissioner of Boston. I did not appoint him. He can assume no position which the courts would uphold except what the people have by the authority of their law vested in him. He speaks only with their voice.

The right of the police of Boston to affiliate has always been questioned, never granted, is now prohibited. The suggestion of President Wilson to Washington does not apply to Boston where the police have remained on duty. Have the policemen's union left their duty, an action which President Wilson characterized as a crime against civilization.

Your assertion that the commissioner was wrong cannot justify the wrong of leaving the city unguarded. That furnished the opportunity, the criminal element furnished the action. There is no right to strike against the public safety by anybody, anywhere, any time.

You ask that the public safety again be placed in the hands of these same policemen while they continue in disobedience to the laws of Massachusetts and in their refusal to obey the orders of the police department. Since men have been tried and removed others have abandoned their duty their places have under the law been declared vacant on the opinion of the attorney general. I can suggest no authority outside the courts to take further action.

I wish to join and assist in taking a broad view of every situation. I gave responsibility rests on all of us. You can depend on me to support you in every legal action and sound policy. I am equally determined to defend the sovereignty of Massachusetts and to maintain the authority and jurisdiction over her public officers where it has been placed by the constitution and laws of her people.

CALVIN COOLIDGE,

Governor of Massachusetts

RESUME PRE-WAR CODE

Competition for Commercial
Conquest of Germany is
Well Under Way

LONDON, (Correspondence of the Associated Press)—American and British foreign trade interests have resumed their accustomed pre-war code and the competition for the commercial conquest of Germany and other recently enemy countries is well under way.

This is freely admitted by representatives here of both American and British trade bodies. The London head of one American business men's organization said:

"The business man reasons it out this way: 'Eventually—perhaps in a year from now—we shall have resumed normal trade relations with those nations which were, until a few months ago, our enemies. Why not get busy now—if I don't someone else will? So sentimental considerations are eliminated. The dollar and the pound once more are what business is seeking.'"

A sharpness of competition unapproached in pre-war days will characterize the conduct of foreign trade activities during the next few years. It is generally conceded. America's possession of raw materials, her facilities for quantity production and the fact that her industrial machinery is not so clogged with strikes and other labor disturbances which are so seriously impairing British trade, it is thought, ensures the United States a fair proportion of this business.

But it is pointed out that a voluminous foreign trade will be essentially a "new game" and British traders feel that lack of experience will offset, in a measure, the advantages indicated which now favor American trade blunders.

GRECIAN COIF FOR
CLASSIC PROFILE

Written Especially for The Sun.
BY BARBARA BURKE,
Editor of "Beauty Culture."

Choosing the style of hairdressing that suits your particular type of beauty is the one vital thing to remember. There was never a time when the styles of hairdressing were so elastic as now. Any style is correct, so long as it suits your particular type of beauty.

For the well-shaped head, the high brow, and the classic profile, a simple Grecian hairdress is the very best. Let the hair fall in natural waves, and make it into a simple knot at the back. Do not pile it high, or wear false hair, or overawe it, or stick it out about the ears.

The object should be to let it follow the outline of the head—to reveal the shape of the head, and frame the face naturally.

The woman with a beautifully shaped head has little trouble with her hairdressing. All she needs to remember is to allow it to follow naturally the outline of the head and to dress it simply.

solutions, and if used must be neutralized after the stain is out, by using an alkali.

Wool and silk require more care than cotton. Alkalies and much rubbing is destructive to both silk and wool.

Colored materials require more careful treatment than white.

The best place to remove stains, and to keep the supply of removers, and the equipment for the work, is the laundry.

The equipment consists of large and smaller porcelain or pottery bowls over which the stained material is stretched, a medicine dropper, for applying the stain remover in small quantities, a small tub or bowl for rinsing, soap, a soft, absorbent pad or blotting paper sheets, and the various bottles and containers for the chemicals used.

Ordinary laundering, with a little extra care, will serve to remove minor stains. First soak the stain in cold or lukewarm water, and rub with a mild soap. Blame in clear water, then launder as usual.

For delicate materials stains are best removed by sponging.

Put a heavy absorbent pad, or blot-

STAINS NOT HOPELESS!
TREAT 'EM THIS WAY

With the cost of materials and clothing at its present height, a stain on a garment is a real tragedy.

But only a temporary tragedy.

Practically every stain may be removed by proper treatment. The good housewife will learn to fit the treatment to the spot and waste no tears over ruined articles or throw away any garment because it is spotted or stained.

The first essential in stain removal is prompt treatment. Drying, exposure to air, laundering, and aging all add to the difficulties of stain removal.

The second essential is to know the cause of the stain—the nature of the trouble must be known before a treatment is applied. Using the wrong remover may set the stain and make its eradication impossible.

Also, stains are treated differently in different textiles or fabrics. Cotton and linen are often destroyed by acid

IMPROVEMENT IN
FRANCE'S BIRTHRATE

PARIS (Correspondence of the Associated Press).—France's declining birthrate has lately been a source of much concern but a distinct improvement has been noticed during the present month.

Evidence of a great decline in births in 1918 was shown in official figures for the district of the Seine, which includes the city of Paris, which showed that there are only 43,159 births registered in that district in 1918 as compared to the 73,599 in 1917.

The infantile death rate given by statisticians is 40 per cent as compared to 10 per cent before the war. This has been attributed to the scarcity of wet nurses and poor quality and shortage of milk for bottle-fed babies. This shortage is said to be due to the tremendous increase in cheese making, especially in Normandy.

However, all the maternity hospitals in Paris reported increased births thus far in the present month. In one hospital the number has doubled those of last year and it is declared that babies are remarkable for size, weight and general health. A new permanent marriage has just appeared. It announces that it will devote itself to the question of the repopulation of

France which is generally recognized to be one of the most urgent problems of the day. It asks its readers "what means should be adopted to combat the present matrimonial crisis in France?"

MASS CELEBRATED IN CRADLE OF LIBERTY

BOSTON, Sept. 15.—For the first time in history mass was celebrated yesterday in historic Faneuil hall when the Rev. John W. Cullane, S.T.C., of the Holy Cross cathedral, conducted services for the Catholic members of the state guard now policing Boston. The hall was filled with guardsmen, and they were given good, round advice regarding their duty to God and country by Fr. Cullane in his short sermon.

"These are perilous times," counseled Fr. Cullane, who is chaplain of the Tenth regiment of the state guard. "God and Country should be your slogan. Our catechism teaches us that we are in this world to love and serve God. God means constituted authority."

He counseled the men to do all their duties in the same faithful manner they have performed them in these trying days in Boston. He asked all those at the mass to pray for peace and order in Boston and all over the world.

An improvised altar of chairs and tables was used, and Fr. Cullane came equipped with his regulation chaplain's kit. Most of the worshippers at the service in Faneuil hall were members of the 24th regiment, which is made up of residents of Springfield, Holyoke, Northampton, Pittsfield and other communities in the western part of the state. Most of the regimental officers attended, regardless of their religious affiliations. Col. Warner, commander of the regiment, was also present.

The mass in Faneuil hall was at 9 o'clock. It was a low mass. Then Fr. Cullane proceeded to the East armory on East Newton street, where he conducted another service. Colonel Thomas F. Sullivan and other officers of the Tenth regiment attended this mass.

5000 GREET DE VALERA AT PROVIDENCE

PROVIDENCE, Sept. 15.—Eamonn De Valera, greeted as the president of the Irish republic, was given a demonstrative reception at a mass meeting of 5000 people at Mettress park yesterday afternoon. He returned from Newport on the yacht of Mrs. John H. Hanan, and at 2:30 was escorted to the ball grounds in Elmwood by several hundred uniformed Irish volunteers, a brass band and marching civilians. Thousands of spectators lined the streets along the 2½-mile parade.

De Valera was guarded by a number of police inspectors headed by Chief O'Neill. The crowd at the mass meeting filled the grandstands, the bleachers and a larger part of the gardens. The colors of the Irish republic waved at every point in the enclosure and like magic most everyone was adorned with the official button of the new republic.

Miles A. McNamee called the meeting to order and presented Congressman Ambrose Kennedy of the Third Rhode Island district as chairman.

Kennedy bitterly arraigned President Wilson and denounced the League of Nations. He was wildly cheered when he predicted the senate would never approve the covenant.

Mayor Gainer of Providence paid tribute to De Valera and spoke hopefully of the result of his mission to this country. Henry Holland, De Valera's secretary, was presented as a member of the Dall Tireann from South Roscommon. His narration of recent events in Ireland drew frequent cheers.

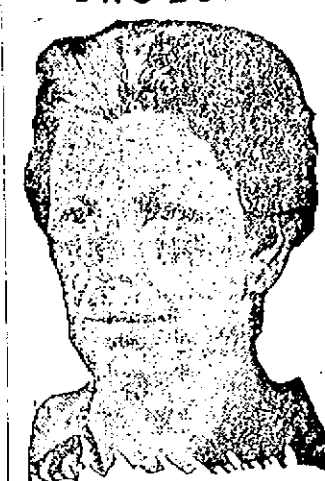

There were several minutes of cheering when De Valera reached the platform. He devoted much time to the art of union and denounced it as one of fraud and corruption. He said Ireland would be compromised if America adopted the League of Nations. He said he appealed to the American people but to the Irish people in this country in particular, urging them to let England know that she must not treat Ireland as she is doing today.

Thomas F. Cooney of the welcome committee said there was no excuse for the failure of the United States to come to the aid of Ireland. A resolution he presented to be sent to the United States senate protesting against the League of Nations was adopted with vociferous cheering.

NEW SALVATION ARMY LEADERS WELCOMED

Adjutant and Mrs. Robert Klepzig, the new officers of the local Salvation Army corps, made their initial bow to a Lowell audience on Saturday night. The new leaders were enthusiastically welcomed. An unusual big open air rally was conducted on Saturday night at the corner of Jackson and Central streets. The large audience enjoyed the selections and songs played by the Lowell band and listened with strict attention to the appeal made by Adj. Klepzig for Christian lives. At eight o'clock at the Salvation Army Citadel on Jackson street, the first service conducted by the new officers took place. The adjutant termed it a getting-acquainted meeting. Sergt. Maj. Wilson, for many years a local officer of the corps, led the preliminaries and many speeches of welcome were made by members of the local corps. Adj. and Mrs. Klepzig were then introduced by Sergt. Maj. Wilson, who expressed his pleasure in being able to present to a Lowell audience such experienced officers as Adj. and Mrs. Klepzig. The new officers were accorded a great ovation. Mrs. Klepzig spoke briefly of her experience of many years in the Salvation Army and of the pleasure it afforded her to be appointed together with her husband to take charge of such a fine corps as that of the Lowell Salvation Army. The adjutant spoke in an informal way and complimented Lowell on having such a good corps of the Salvation Army. He mentioned how proud he was to be selected to be in charge of this Salvation Army post. He paid a glowing tribute to the work of his predecessors, Adjutant and Mrs. Clark and the fine state he had found the local work in upon his arrival. The adjutant said that it was his intention to win himself a place of usefulness in the community. He spoke of his experience in many fields of Salvation Army work and his endeavor to preach the gospel of Jesus Christ to all who would listen. The meeting finished with an appeal to the unconverted. All day on Sunday the meetings both on the street and in the Salvation Army hall were marked with unusual large attendance. The adjutant and his four children were taken into the Sunday school on Sunday afternoon. During his address on Sunday night the adjutant thanked the people present for the fine welcome given them to the city and said already his family as well as himself felt at home among such a warm-hearted people. Many expressions of

BETTER THAN TWO DOCTORS

MRS. ROSE LAMARCHE

Two years ago I became acquainted with RED PILLS for pale and weak women. I started to take them as directed, and I owe my good health of today to their beneficial qualities. I have had eight children and four premature confinements. After the first years of married life, I became so weakened and in such poor health that I was unable to do my own work, as I had always done in the past. I went to see two doctors, followed their advice, but without results, my health was always the same. I then stopped taking their medicine and put myself solely under the influence of RED PILLS for pale and weak women; fifteen boxes did the work and restored me to good health, which is saying that I owe them more than I can ever repay. My little girl now takes RED PILLS and whenever needed, I will be sure to take them again also.

MRS. ROSE LAMARCHE,

RED PILLS are for women only. They are always sold in boxes of fifty pills, 50 cents a box, 6 boxes for $2.50. See that the name of the "Frenco American Chemical Company Limited" is on every box.

we have been voiced during the Sunday meetings at the Salvation Army hall. The adjutant is full of enthusiasm and of hope for the future of the Salvation Army in Lowell.

6% Preferred Stock	10,000,000	10,000,000

We call your attention to the following summary of a letter from Mr. H. S. Firestone, President of the Company:

BUSINESS:

The present Company is successor to a company of the same name founded in 1900. Its products consist of solid rubber tires and pneumatic tires and tubes for passenger cars and trucks, tire rims, steel bases for solid tires, and a miscellaneous line of rubber goods, including boots and shoes, bicycle and motorcycle tires, and tire accessories.

PURPOSE OF ISSUE:

The proceeds will be used for: Additional equipment to increase the output of plant No. 2; enlarging the output of cord tires in the main plant; constructing a new mechanical building and a new steel rim plant; additional working capital.

SECURITY:

The Company will maintain at all times Net Quick Assets equivalent to 125% and total Net Tangible Assets equivalent to 200% of the aggregate par value of both classes of Preferred Stock then outstanding.

If 25% or more of the holders of this stock object, the Company will not issue any debenture bonds maturing later than one year from their issue, or issue any mortgage or other lien upon the assets of the Company, or permit any of its present or future subsidiary companies to do so or authorize any additional stock with rights equal or prior to the rights of the 7% Preferred stock.

ASSETS:

The total Net Tangible Assets as of July 31, 1919, after giving effect to the present financing and after deducting the outstanding amount of 6% Preferred Stock, amount to over $48,000,000.

EARNINGS:

During the last 3½ years the average annual net income after payment of dividends on the 6% Preferred Stock was $3,148,805, or over 4½ times the dividend requirements on this issue. The annual average of the net earnings for the 3½ years ended October 31, 1918, was $4,652,592, or over 6½ times the dividend on this issue.

PREFERENCES:

This stock is entitled to 7% cumulative dividends after providing for the dividends and redemption charge on account of the 6% Preferred Stock. If called for redemption, or upon any distribution of the Company's assets, whether by dissolution, liquidation, merger or consolidation, this stock is entitled to 110 and accrued dividends after providing for the 6% Preferred stock at the same price.

SINKING FUND:

Beginning in 1921, not less than 10% of the net income after providing for dividends on and redemption of the 6% Preferred, and dividends on the 7% Preferred, shall be used for the redemption of this stock at 110, if not obtainable in the open market at a lower price.

All legal matters pertaining to this issue will be passed upon for us by Messrs. Shearman & Sterling, New York, and by Messrs. Miller, Gorham & Wales, Chicago, for the Company.

The accounts have been audited by Messrs. Haskins & Sells, Certified Public Accountants.

We offer this stock for subscription, subject to allotment, if, as and when issued and received by us, and subject to approval of Counsel at old McIntyre, freshmen athletic director, and William P. Boland, Holy Cross 1918, at present a chemistry teacher at the local school. In several ways the 1919 season is a novel one and presents many perplexing questions. To begin with a football team will be put in the field as the result of long and earnest deliberation on the part of the school authorities as to the feasibility of maintaining this major sport as a part of the curriculum. It finally rested within the judgment of Coach Conway and he decided to go through with it. He was aided in his decision by an apparent healthy interest on the part of the boys themselves and a promise of generous support from the student body.

The coaches face a tough proposition. As much as the squad contains only one veteran player, Thomas W. Gray, a senior who played a guard position with Dan Coughlin on the 1917 team. One man is not much of a nucleus around which to build an eleven, but mindful of all the obstacles in the path, the coaches feel that satisfactory results will be obtained. For the time being practice will be held daily at Washington park at 3 p. m. As in most years the home games will be played at Spaulding Park, the only available grounds. Although the season's schedule is not complete, a tentative one has been drawn up which includes games with Manchester and Concord, N. H., Fitchburg, Woburn, Haverhill and Lawrence high schools. The Lawrence game will be played in Lowell this year. When finally framed the schedule will call for eight or nine games and Mr. Conway expects to have it in shape for publication within a few days.

It was practically a green squad which faced the coaches at Washington park today, although there were a few men who showed up well during the spring practice sessions. Among them were Fred Wilson, McMillan, Pat Millane, Trull, Luster, Caldwell, O'Hare, McAdams, Noble and Dorash. When left the eleven will be fairly light in weight, but Coach Conway plans to more than offset this by an abundance of speed and football brains.

The National City Company buys $10,000,000 of Firestone Preferred Stock

Firestone production is increasing so rapidly under demand from our 42,000 dealers that this additional capital was required

Although the two great Firestone plants at Akron are turning out daily 22,000 tires and 25,000 tubes, the demand from passenger car owners and truck operators continues to outstrip production.

Additional equipment already ordered for Plant No. 2, which is devoted exclusively to the manufacture of 3 1-2 inch tires and tubes, will increase the output of this one manufacturing unit to 16,000 tires a day; while in the parent plant increased equipment for the manufacture of Cords is steadily building the output to its capacity of 20,000 tires daily, which will give a total capacity of 36,000 tires a day.

These equipment requirements and the need of a new steel plant that will double the output of Firestone Rims, are being met by an issue of $10,000,000 7% Preferred Stock, the entire amount being taken by The National City Company, the world's largest distributors of high grade securities.

On the financial page of this paper you will find an advertisement signed by The National City Company, which gives some interesting facts about the financial strength of the Firestone Company---a strength that is founded on twenty years of sound business policy and is an index of the character of the Company's products.

The National City Company is in the business of buying and distributing through its many correspondent offices the securities of corporations that are so well managed, so conservatively financed and whose products fill such a public need, that they measure up to its exacting standards of what should constitute a prime investment.

It is a high tribute to the quality of Firestone products and to the great dealer organization through which they are distributed that the demand for them should so increase as to require this additional capital to meet it. And it is a tribute to the character of the Firestone institution that the distribution of this entire $10,000,000 Preferred Stock issue should be undertaken by The National City Company.

See that you get the values in mileage and service that are responsible for this demand for Firestone tires and this standing of the Company. Whatever type of tire you use, there is a Firestone to suit your needs---of a quality that assures you the economy of MOST MILES PER DOLLAR. Ask your dealer for Firestones. Have them put on every wheel of your car or truck.

Firestone employees number 17,000
Firestone resources exceed $73,000,000
The company's volume of sales last year was over $75,000,000
Daily output of the factories at this writing is 22,000 tires and 25,000 tubes
When equipment now ordered is installed, the output will be 36,000 tires and 40,000 tubes daily
Firestone makes rims for over half the makes of passenger cars built
Firestone makes demountable rims for 62% of the different trucks that equip with giant pneumatic truck tires

Eddie Heron, who used to be the "Hit" Holter" in "Way Down East," will be seen in a brand new farce called "The Selling Salesman." Heron is one of the regular comedians of the stage. Not always was he in vaudeville. He began his career in "Peck's Bad Boy," later playing with such worthies as O. C. Skinner, Arnold Daly, Charles Gillingham and to Wolf Hopner. He is surrounded by a most competent lot of players.

Edna Heron, who used to travel with her brother, Ed, as a female student, and now, and she is none other than Alice Bradford, who is very well known in vaudeville. Both are singers. The new show has a new song, "AB for a Song" is the name of their act, and it fits the case perfectly. There are no more attractive exponents of the "Harem" than the Jordan Girls, and the two comely young women will give difficult feats with grace and ease. Margaret Padula is a chic singer, who sings with her manner and costume, as much as with her voice. Ethel Carmen will open the bill with novelty hoop rolling and baton exercises. The B. F. Keith New World Theatre of the day after tomorrow will make up the remainder of this very good bill.

OPERA HOUSE
 "The Little Teacher," one of the most recent stage creations by Harry J. Smith, author of "The Tailor-Made Man" and other successes, will be the attraction for the coming week by the Lowell Players at the Opera House. This piece was originally produced by Conan & Harris and at that time created no end of favorable comment from critics and public alike. It was re-created on the popular play stage.

In securing it for local presentation Messrs. Buckley & Schaeke have made a ten-strike, for it was only after considerable difficulty and the expenditure of many toys and other succumbent things that they got it. It's a most entertaining romance of New Hampshire hills and has a delightful sprinkling of humor, pathos and all other elements that go in the making of an acceptable play. In putting it locally, Director Kirk will endeavor to make it as good as it is and finished as the original production as stagecraft will permit. Mr. Kirk has already demonstrated his unusual accomplishment as a director, and his assurance of a finished offering should be sufficient to inspire confidence that it will be truly commendable. One of the happy features of the play will be the introduction of Miss Margaret Fields and John Meenan in entirely new characters. They will be the perfect foil of endeavor for them both. Miss Fields will appear as "the little teacher" and Mr. Meenan as the big-hearted lumberman. The others of the cast will find their respective parts of importance, particularly Miss Knowles, Miss Freubauer and Hal Crane.

✓ The sale of tickets for the week is large, indicating capacity audiences at each performance. To insure the possibility of reservations early and avoid possible disappointment. Better still have your name placed on the subscription list. It costs no more. Tel. 261.

THE STRAND

Tom Moore in "The City of Comrades," and Miss Corinne Griffiths in "The Bramble Bush," will be the chief picture attractions on The Strand program for the first three days of this week. Both are excellent picturizations and must be seen to be fully appreciated. The former is a dramatic effort, and the latter a fine comedy drama.

On next Saturday afternoon the pony contest will come to a close. At the matinee performance on that day all voters will be invited to the stage to announce, and the award made from the stage. The handsome Shetland pony, with complete cowboy riding outfit, will be given away absolutely free to the voter girl having the largest number of votes. As an incentive the management will give triple votes away at the Saturday matinee. Think of it! Three for one. Keep plugging hard for your favorite girl. Remember that it is up to you what you can give to win the coveted prize. The Strand Fashion Revue next week.

THE OWL THEATRE
Mary Pickford in "Daddy Long Legs," coming to the Owl theatre all next week, giving two performances daily, has certainly caught the country by storm, which only goes to prove that all the big things that had been said of her production were not in idle boast.

It is doubtful if ever a picture played has been better, or even as well liked, as this one, and the dainty little star, because she has been seen to such excellent advantage. During the first half of the picture she keeps the audience in roars of laughter, while in the latter part, during her college days, she is simply charming.

Millions of admirers of Miss Pickford will agree when they have seen this picture that the favorite star never had a better or more appealing personality overcomes even the most sordid surroundings, as a girl tastefully capers the good things which she so longed for in her childhood captivity, and at last a lover, coquettish, capricious Miss Pickford's characterization is a masterpiece.

As a madcap child whose restless

The Pickford beauty prize has awakened no end of curiosity among the theatregoers of the city and much speculation is being waged as to which one is going to win the $50 and be in line for stellar honors. Mr. Malley, Miss Plekford's personal representative, has engaged Miss Madeline Holland, the popular Lowell singer, to render the long success, "Daddy Long Legs," during its engagement at the Owl. An augmented orchestra will play the score written for the production under the able leadership of Mr. John Kehoe. Two shows will be given daily, 2.15 and 8.15 p. m.

OPPORTUNITY FOR FURTHER SERVICE

Members of Battery F, Lowell's, artillery unit, which saw service overseas, have an opportunity for further service as members of the national guard, according to notification which has been received by Capt. W. C. MacBrayne, recently appointed commander of the battery, from Col. Herbert of Worcester, commander of the 102nd Regiment, of which the Lowell unit is a part.

Enlistments will be for one year and the soldiers will be called only in case of a great emergency. There will be no physical examination and it will be possible to obtain discharges before the year's service is terminated. Five recruiting officers will assist Captain MacBrayne in the campaign and headquarters will be established at the War Camp Community Service club in Dutton street.

Tuesday, September 16th, 1919, at 2.30 O'Clock

COMPLETE STOCK OF A GROCERY AND VARIETY STORE, AT NO. 51 MARTIN STREET, OFF RIVERSIDE STREET, REAR OF TEXTILE SCHOOL, TO BE SOLD IN ONE LOT.

The stock consists of groceries, canned goods, cigars and tobacco, confectionery, paper bags, gas mantles, and many other articles that would tend to make up a first class neighborhood grocery, and the same will be sold for cash in one lot.

The store can be rented if any one cares to continue the business at the present location.

HENRY CLOUTIER.

THE HEIRS OF THE JOHN NESMITH ESTATE, OWNERS OF THE TWO STORY FOUR APARTMENT HOUSE AT NOS. 63-65 WILLOW STREET-BELVIDERE, HAVE DECIDED TO MAKE SALE OF THIS PARCEL, AND HAVE THEREFORE INSTRUCTED THE AUCTIONEER TO SELL AT UNRESTRICTED PUBLIC SALE TO THE HIGHEST BONA FIDE BIDDERS UPON THE PREMISES ON FRIDAY THE NINETEENTH DAY OF SEPTEMBER, 1919, AT 4 O'CLOCK IN THE AFTERNOON, REGARDLESS OF ANY CONDITION OF THE WEATHER.

The property comprises a block of four tenements, of four and five rooms to each, separate toilets, gas, sewer, city water, etc. There are two apartments on the first floor, each have five rooms, toilet, shed and cellar. On the second story are two flats of four rooms, toilets, and sheds for wood and coal to each. The building is equipped with two front doors, and two side entrances for the common use of all tenants.

The house is fully rented to four desirable tenants, one of whom has occupied the same premises for the past 12 years—and others from three to five years. The present rental of the tenements are, two at $11 each per month, and two at $12 each per month—making a total of $46 per month—or $552 per year, which is an exceedingly low rental for flats of this description and especially flats in this splendid section of Belvidere.

The lot has a frontage on Willow street of about 72 feet and a total area of about 9015 square feet; practically 50 per cent. of this area, in the rear of the building is undeveloped, and owing to its dimensions, one could very easily add to the present structure, or erect a two, four or six apartment block and in no way disturb the present building, and with homes and tenements so scarce, and with the demands for them daily increasing, one could be absolutely assured of an immediate rental, and an income that would pay a very large revenue on the total investment. This sale is of unusual importance.

First:
Its location, IN BELVIDERE, within eight minutes of easy and actual walking distance from Merrimack Square, in a splendid wide street within a minute's actual walk of the electric cars, within close proximity to churches of different denominations.

Secondly:
The building is an investment property having four tenements which can be made to yield a great revenue, also with the opportunity to erect additional apartments in the rear.

Terms: $750 must be paid to the auctioneer as soon as the property is struck off. Other terms at sale.

J. A. NESMITH, for the Heirs.

AT No. 73 LAWRENCE ST., LOWELL

THIS FULL 2½ STORY DWELLING AND ABOUT 3553 SQUARE FEET OF LAND PLEDGED TO THE HIGHEST BONA FIDE BIDDERS AT UNRESTRICTED PUBLIC SALE ON SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 20, 1919, AT 3 O'CLOCK P. M.

On the premises regardless of any condition of the weather we will sell to whosoever will bid the most this well situated parcel of real estate. The premises consist of a full 2½ story dwelling containing twenty-one rooms, also bath room, and hot and cold water, furnace heat, gas, city water and sewer connections. There are ten rooms on the first floor and on the second floor are eleven rooms. With 1½ bath, the building is in very fair repair, only recently considerable money was expended in painting, etc.

The premises have long since been occupied as a lodging house and with its large arrangements can be continued successfully as a business property; this is also especially true owing to its location, the property being within eight minutes' walking distance of the very center of Lowell, Merrimack Square; also within three or four minutes of the Postoffice; also within comfortable walking distance of the largest of Lowell's Manufacturing Plants.

The house could, if one so desired, and with a comparatively small outlay owing to its present state, be converted into a two or more apartment property and the owner could be absolutely assured of an immediate rental.

This sale has many advantages and should strongly appeal to all persons interested in real estate both for the home-seeker and investor alike.

Terms: $500 must be paid to the auctioneer just as soon as the property is struck off. Other terms at sale.

CHARLES JOHNSON.

HOME WELCOME TO SERVICE MEN

Wide co-operation and gratifying financial and moral support is being accorded the plans for the welcome home celebration to be given to service men by the folks of the South End in October. Another enthusiastic meeting of interested men was held yesterday afternoon in St. Peter's school hall, at which time several matters of importance were discussed.

In answer to constant questions as to extent of city territory embraced by the South End, the committee in charge have ruled that the district for this celebration is most elastic and comprises all land between Tower's Corner, as the eastern boundary, all of Belvidere and the Highlands as far as the Middlesex street car barns, Chelmsford street to Lincoln square and the Lawrence street "grove" section.

Yesterday's meeting brought out the fact that more than $300 already has been received in voluntary contributions and that the committee will appeal to merchants and citizens to further aid the plans by substantial subscriptions. Chairman Daniel Cosgrove presided and the secretary's report was read by James L. O'Dea. Committees reported fine progress and a delegation from the Y.M.C.A. promised the support of money and its membership.

The parade in connection with the celebration will be the crowning feature and will be held on Columbus day. It will embrace every conceivable feature and it is confidently expected that several thousand persons will be in line.

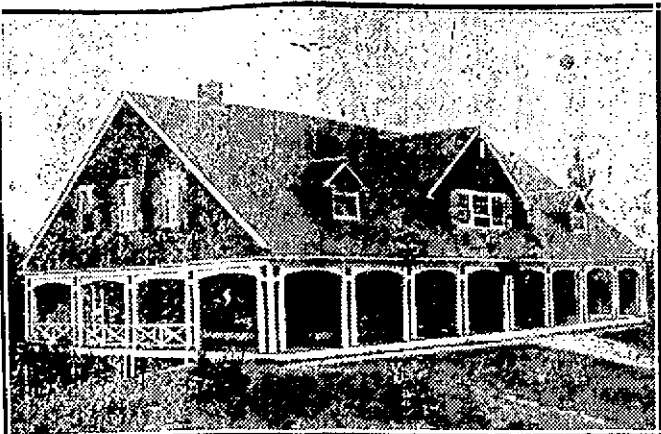

A dance to provide additional funds will be conducted early in October at Associate hall and other events will be held to arouse interest in the celebration. The women of the South End section will hold a mass meeting on Thursday evening of this week, at 8 o'clock, at St. Peter's school hall and they will be asked to aid the plans in any manner they desire. It is the idea of the committee in charge to enlist the interest of every man and woman in the section as they feel that only in this way will success be assured.

The next meeting of the committee will be held on Thursday night.

GENOA CLUBHOUSE BURNED YESTERDAY

GENOA CLUB BURNED

Summer Home of Knights of Columbus in Tyngsboro Destroyed by Fire

Lowell council of the Knights of Columbus sustained a most disheartening loss early yesterday morning when the beautiful and well appointed Genoa club in Tyngsboro, the summer home of members of the council and scene of hundreds of happy affairs in the past dozen years, was burned to the ground at a loss of $5000. The origin of the fire was unknown.

The building was a two-story wooden affair and had been erected about 15 years. A broad veranda surrounded it on all sides. The lower floor was used for dancing, banquets, etc., and the upper floor as rest rooms for the members. The last big affair staged there was the annual outing of the board of trade held a week ago Thursday.

The club house was situated on the crest of a slope which ran down to a broad athletic field. Abundant foliage surrounded it on all sides but luckily the fire was prevented from spreading beyond the immediate confines of the building. Campers who passed the scene at midnight Saturday report that there was no trace of fire then. A little later it was discovered completely enveloped in flames. Officers of the council are at a loss to explain how the fire started. The floors were of hard wood and not likely to offer very inflammable material to a smoldering cigar or cigarette. There was no refuse about the building in which rats might start the fire.

The building is very near the car tracks of the Lowell-Nashua line and many people visited the scene yesterday. The structure was burned to the ground, only the brickwork of the fireplace being left standing.

A cottage near the clubhouse, also owned by the Knights of Columbus and said to date back to the Revolutionary period, was not harmed by the fire. There are a large number of camps in that section of Tyngsboro but none in the immediate vicinity of the Genoa club.

Residents of the entire neighborhood were summoned as soon as the flames were discovered but they had to confine themselves to preventing the flames from spreading to nearby property. The building was too far gone when the fire was discovered to be saved. Only a light breeze was blowing and this helped to keep the flames concentrated on the clubhouse.

The building was erected about 15 years ago by Connors Bros., formerly of this city but now of New York. It was built the same year that the Nashua postoffice was erected. The loss is covered by insurance to the extent of $1000.

ash, immoral and dishonorable" and charged that they sought to "isolate the United States from the rest of the world and abandon our allies."

Jingoistic Spirit
"To the substance of some of the proposed resolutions," his report declared, "there can be no serious objection. But against the manner in which they are asserted, I do most earnestly protest. They are couched in a defiant, disrespectful and overbearing manner, and seem intended to express a jingoistic spirit that ought to be eliminated from American citizenship."

Criticizing the committee's reservation to Article 10 of the League of Nations covenant, Senator McCumber said it really was an amendment "pure and simple and designed to take the United States entirely out of the league."

Special opposition was expressed to the proposed amendment to the Shantung provision. By this amendment, he said, Japan would be "kicked out" of the league by the United States and Shantung possibly lost to China.

Calling attention to what he termed the failure of the committee majority to explain the purposes of the league, he said: "Not one word is said, not a single allusion made concerning either the great purpose of the League of Nations or the methods by which those purposes are to be accomplished."

Senator McCumber said that the amendment to give the United States equal votes in the league with Great Britain was unnecessary. The plan of giving each member nation one vote without regard to size or importance, was the only possible plan, he argued, since in all intents and purposes the British colonies were independent.

His Only Objection

He said his only objection to the Lodge reservation on withdrawal from the league was of form. As to the Lodge reservation to Article 10, he had many objections.

"First, it is an amendment pure and simple," he said, "of the most important article in the league. Its purpose is to take the United States as a power for the peace of the world out of the league entirely."

"Second, it places this country in a false and wrong position in an attitude of encouraging powerful countries to inflict or impose any wrong upon weaker nations by our declared policy of non-intervention."

With his report Senator McCumber submitted the six reservations he champions as substitutes for the committee reservations. These recently were made public.
